Today's War Moves

By J. W. T. MASON
British United Press War Expert
Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

GERMANY is not stressing today the importance of the new non-aggression agreement signed by Bulgaria and Turkey. The reason seems obvious, for the pact implies that the Turks now believe Hitler has abandoned previous plans for an offensive against the Dardanelles for passage southward to Suez and Egypt.

When Ankara allowed reports to circulate last year that Turkey would fight to prevent German troops entering eastern Greece, it was understood that any such Teutonic thrust would be preliminary to a German offensive against Turkey. At that time, Marshal Graziani was preparing to move against Alexandria and

BRITISH AIRMEN TRAINED TO FLY BIG U.S. PLANES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—British pilots, described as civilians rather than Royal Air Force men, are being trained by commercial flyers in United States to operate the huge American-made bombers now being delivered to Britain.

War department officials said today the training was being done by employees of Transcontinental and Western Air, commercial airline.

U.S. army fields, especially McChord field, near Tacoma, Wash., and March field near Riverside, Calif., are being used because they afford the long runways necessary for landings by the big planes, it was said.

B.C. TO ABSORB DIRECT RELIEF COSTS IN WAR

Province Will Take Over Costs Previously Borne By Dominion

VANCOUVER, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Premier Pattullo of British Columbia announced Monday night that for the duration of the war the province will absorb direct relief costs previously borne by the Dominion government.

At present the Dominion government pays 40 per cent, the provinces 40 per cent and municipalities 20 per cent of the costs of direct relief. Under the new division, the province will absorb 80 per cent and the municipalities 20 per cent.

Hon. Norman McLarty, Federal minister of labor, announced last Thursday that the Dominion government would make no direct relief contributions during the fiscal year starting April 1 next. The decision was made for several reasons, all directly or indirectly connected with the war, said Mr. McLarty.

Prior to his departure last night for Prince Rupert where he will speak Wednesday night, Premier Pattullo said the province would absorb the Dominion's estimated share of about $1,500,000 for the war period and that no part of the additional costs would be placed on the municipalities.

JAPAN OFFERS ACT AS WORLD PEACE MAKER

By H. O. THOMPSON

TOKYO, Feb. 18—(BUP)—Japan, acutely anxious over the attitude of the United States and Great Britain toward her expansionist ambitions, offered today to assume the role of peace maker anywhere in the world.

By implication she invited Britain to make peace once with Germany and she suggested that, as regards the far east, the best way to avoid a clash was for the United States to confine its interests and activities to its own hemisphere.

STRENGTHEN EMBASSIES

At the same time the government moved to strengthen its embassy at Washington by creating the post of minister. Kaname Wakasugi, former consul general at New York who is now special adviser to Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, the ambassador, was named minister.

Similar action was taken to strengthen the Berlin embassy, Shin Sakuma, former minister to

More Than Half Of National Income Is Needed Ilsley Says

War and Normal Government Costs In Fiscal Year 1941-42 Will Amount To $2,700,000,000 Commons Told

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Finance Minister Ilsley today told the House of Commons Canadian people would have to meet war and normal government costs, Dominion, provincial and municipal, in the fiscal year 1941-42, amounting to more than half the estimated national income of $5,300,000,000.

"This may well prove to be the most critical year in the history of the world," Mr. Ilsley said.

He presented a resolution calling for expenditure on war alone of $1,300,000,000, for the next fiscal year, and warned the estimate might fall short by "a substantial amount".

War appropriations for the current year were $700,000,000.

There were few in the galleries, but a full, tense representation sat in the house as the minister, in a low, grave voice, announced the staggering costs of war.

Opposition Leader Hanson, adjourning the debate, said the people of Canada would meet this great burden and "see this war through if it takes the last dollar."

To meet this huge drain upon Canadian resources would require "changes in the habits and mode of living of the Canadian people," and the further transfer of industry from peacetime to wartime production, Mr. Ilsley said.

The house adjourned for the day immediately after Mr. Ilsley's brief statement was concluded.

GIVEN RIGHT OF WAY

It had been agreed that the war appropriations resolution would be given right of way over other business and the adjournment was to enable members to study its significance before entering on debate.

There would have to be a serious appreciation throughout the country of the financial responsibilities shouldered by the people in an all out war effort, Mr. Ilsley said.

The war appropriation bill, which will be introduced when the resolution is adopted, is the largest ever placed before a Dominion parliament.

The minister estimated Canada's war expenditures in the present fiscal year at $875,000,000. To Jan. 31 last from April 1 last, cash outlay for war was $538,803,000.

Adjourning the debate Mr. Hanson said the monumental figures involved, difficult to understand "by we who deal in small amounts," gave some indication of the magnitude of the sacrifice Canadian people would have to undergo.

The people would respond and make whatever sacrifices were necessary, he said, but they would hold the government strictly accountable for all expenditures.

Unanimous consent of the house was required before Mr. Ilsley could introduce his resolution. Consent was granted by Conservative house leader Hanson at the request of Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Mr. Ilsley's resolution said it was resolved "that it is expedient to introduce measure to provide . . . that sums not exceeding $1,300,000,000 be granted to His Majesty towards defraying any expenses or making any advance or loans that may be incurred or granted by or under the authority of the governor-in-council during the year March 31, 1942 . . . for the security, defence, peace, order and welfare of Canada . . . the conduct of naval, military and air operations in or beyond Canada . . ."

It also provided for other activities related to the war effort and the raising of the monies under provisions of the Consolidated Revenue and Audit Act.

MOST IMPORTANT MEASURE

The war appropriation bill was perhaps the most important measure ever to come before the Canadian parliament, Mr. Hanson said when he assented to Mr. King's suggestion that procedure be speeded up in order to permit immediate consideration of the bill.

"The sum mentioned is staggering and enormous," said Mr. Hanson.

The prime minister explained that if the house did not give unanimous consent to proceed with the resolution today it would be necessary to wait until Thursday.

In view of the importance and magnitude of the legislation involved he thought the House

Sharp Blows Against Italy May Be Next Phase Of War

Benghazi May Be Used For Base Of Attack On Mainland

By DREW MIDDLETON

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Sharp blows by British air, sea and land forces against the Italian peninsula itself were viewed in some quarters today as a possible second phase of Britain's campaign in the Mediterranean.

With Italian invaders ousted from Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, Kenya Colony and Egypt, and all operations in Africa now going on in Italian possessions, Britain's army of the Nile has completed the first phase of its offensive.

Despite the presence of a British spearhead menacing Tripoli, the only major port in the hands of the Italians in their Libyan colony, General Sir Archibald P. Wavell has given no indication his army intends to reduce that city as they have Bardia, Tobruk and Benghazi.

Instead, with Benghazi as westernmost base for operations, a series of local attacks on Italian ports, communications and industrial centres was viewed in informed circles as likely to have better results than extension of British lines some 600 miles further west to Tripoli.

The Italian railroad system with thousands of miles of tracks hugging the coastline, it was pointed out, is well within the range of battleship guns, as well as bombers.

Such coast artillery bases as Civitavecchia, port 38 miles from Rome, would be another obvious objective, it was asserted.

Quick but jarring stabs at such points, it was said, would hamper Italy's efforts to reinforce her armies in Africa and Albania, and might require Germany to divert to Italy additional men, planes and defence guns from the important western front opposite Britain.

JAPAN ENTRY IN WAR MUST BE CONSIDERED

Premier King Says Japs May Fight At Signal From Axis

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Japanese entry into the war "at the moment that may best serve the common cause of the aggressor nations," was a contingency that must be taken into consideration, Prime Minister Mackenzie King declared in the House of Commons Monday.

"We shall continue to hope that the wiser counsels of the more moderate leaders in Japan will ultimately prevail," he said.

He warned that a tremendous effort would likely be made at any moment to destroy the British Empire, possibly with a German invasion attempt on Britain, attacks upon Suez and Gibraltar, and a Japanese thrust at Singapore.

Partial text of Prime Minister Mackenzie King's review of foreign affairs in the House of Commons on Monday will be found on page 3.

Most significant event in recent months was the crystallization of the United States attitude, Mr. King said. "Its growing might towers like an avalanche above the heads of the aggressor nations."

LONG STATEMENT

Mr. King read a 9,000 word statement on international affairs which was the feature of today's short sitting of the resumed session of parliament. It covered progress of events since parliament adjourned Dec. 6.

The Prime Minister repeated in detail the war program for 1941 as

Hanson Asks What Action Is Planned On Sirois Report

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—(CP)—Opposition Leader Hanson, in the House of Commons today, asked Prime Minister Mackenzie King to indicate, at a later date, what recommendations of the report of the Rowell-Sirois commission might be carried out without a Dominion-provincial conference, and what action was proposed.

Mr. King said he would reply later.

Britain Calls Up Reserved Class Of Pilots, Observers

LONDON, Feb. 18—(CP)—The air ministry today called for pilots and observers for bombers and fighters and announced that nearly all men between 18 and 32 in reserved occupations could now join the Royal Air Force.

Civilians engaged in important war work were formerly barred from joining the fighting services.

BERKINSHAW SLATED FOR OTTAWA POST

May Become Director Of Priorities In Supply Department

By B. T. RICHARDSON
Edmonton Bulletin Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—The appointment of R. C. Berkinshaw, general manager and treasurer of Goodyear Tire and Rubber of Canada, Limited, as director-general of priorities in the department of munitions and supply is understood to be pending.

Creation of a priorities post with high rank in the department has been expected for some time, as this branch of munitions and supply was a point of issue between H. R. MacMillan, chairman of the war requirements board, and Hon. C. D. Howe. It is understood that the post was offered to Mr. MacMillan, who is at present in Vancouver, and that he turned it down.

ALREADY ON JOB

Mr. Berkinshaw is a newcomer among volunteer business executives on Parliament Hill, and he is already on the job. He was originally selected by Mr. MacMillan.

Whether these developments will influence Mr. MacMillan's decision to return to Ottawa was a matter of speculation. Mr. MacMillan is a wealthy lumberman from Vancouver who has figured prominently in reported differences of opinion over some features of the industrial war effort. When he left Ottawa on February 8, he said he would return if

EDMONTON NOW LEADS PROVINCE IN WAR SAVINGS

Edmonton's war savings February payroll pledge drive swung into high-gear Tuesday as committee chairmen and workers planned to complete the enrollment of every worker 100 per cent behind Canada's "save for victory" campaign.

Already leading the province in the number of workers pledged to monthly contributions to Canada's war effort, the committee workers will spend the balance of this month preserving this record.

Wednesday afternoon an organization meeting will be held at Millet which will be addressed by G. B. Sanford and Ald. G. A. Campbell, of the central organization committee. Considerable organization work has been done to have every district in the Millet territory represented at this meeting.

The Viking district organization will be set up at a meeting being held at Viking Tuesday. In the Mayerthorpe district organization work is completed and active canvass has begun, according to a report from A. A. Knight, Mayerthorpe, chairman.

Active canvassing is progressing at Grande Prairie, Jasper, Vermilion, Mannville, Waskatenau, Stony Plain and Spruce Grove, and will be general in all districts this week.

Nazis Seeking To 'Convince' Greece To Accept Terms

German Minister In Athens Tells Nation's Leaders Their Country Now Open To Attack Through Bulgaria

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 18.—(AP)—King Boris of Bulgaria was reported by the newspaper Vreme today in a dispatch from Bucharest to have gone to Germany yesterday.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Germany was reported in diplomatic quarters today to have taken steps to "convince" Greece it would be wise to make peace with Italy on Mussolini's terms.

It was reported here the German minister in Athens told Greek leaders after the announcement of the Turkish-Bulgarian non-aggression pact yesterday that Greece is open to attack through Bulgaria.

The implication was understood to be that if Greece failed to comply, Hitler's Balkan army would start rolling southward from its bases in Rumania, crossing Bulgaria and entering eastern Thrace, so the Greeks could not continue their rout of Mussolini in Albania.

GREEKS UNWAVERING

(Nazi propaganda is seeking to make the most of the Turkish-Bulgarian pact by interpreting it as a victory for German diplomacy.

MANY KILLED AS BIG BOMB HITS SHELTER

Germans Paying Steadily Increasing Price For Raids On Britain

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Many persons were killed and others injured when a heavy bomb crashed through the roof of a London shelter during a raid on the capital last night, but the government revealed today the Germans are paying a steadily rising price for their forays.

Four raiders were shot down during the night, it was announced officially, and an air ministry news service bulletin emphasized the ability of British pilots to spot and tail Nazi bombers even on dark, cloudy nights.

COMES AT END OF RAID

The air raid shelter roof was pierced just before the end of a 3½-hour raid and stretcher bearers, doctors and nurses worked for six hours bringing out survivors trapped underground when debris from the blast choked the entrance.

WINANT URGES GREAT BRITAIN BE 'GIVEN TOOLS'

CONCORD, N.H., Feb. 18.—(AP)—John G. Winant, newly-appointed United States ambassador to Great Britain, urged today that the United States serve as a source of "supply against aggressor nations" and provide Britain with needed tools in order that it "might finish the job."

Addressing a joint session of the New Hampshire legislature, the former New Hampshire governor declared that "what we do together can never fail."

"There is nothing today that in my opinion means so much in this country as unity in support of right action," he said.

He added, "Britain has asked that we give them the tools that they 'might finish the job.' We can stand with them as free men in the comradeship of hard work, not asking but giving, with unity of purpose in defence of liberty under law, of government answerable to the people. With God's will and a just cause we can do no less."

Legislators and gallery spectators applauded wildly as Mr. Winant, who intends to leave shortly for London, concluded his speech.

TURKEY WILL STAND BEHIND BRITISH PACT

London Believes Treaty With Bulgaria Will Not Change Attitude

SOFIA, Feb. 18—(CP)—Conclusion of a treaty between Turkey and Bulgaria, pledging the two countries to "consider as the unchangeable foundation of their foreign policies abstinence from all aggression," was announced here Monday night.

The 250-word text of the non-aggression statement contained the significant phrase that the pact was "without prejudice to . . . contracted engagements with other countries."

This implied that Turkey stands firmly by its agreement with Great Britain, under which she has been her non-belligerent ally, and is pledged against aggression in the Balkans.

FOUR POINTS

The accord contained four points:

1—"Abstinence from all aggression."

2—Development of "mutual confidence" in Turkish-Bulgar relations.

3—Development of trade "compatible" with the economic structure of Turkey and Bulgaria.

4—Expression of the hope that the press of the two countries will "be inspired in all their writings by friendship and mutual confidence, re-statement of which is the object of the present declaration."

(Observers quickly pointed out that Bulgaria is falling under Nazi influence and that the report of an accord may be a German manoeuvre to obtain Turkey's reaction.)

SENATOR SAYS BILL TO CARRY U.S. INTO WAR

Opposition Opens Attack On Lease-Lend Bill In Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18—(AP)—Senator Bennett Champ Clark expressed belief in the United States Senate today that enactment of the pending British aid bill would be "equivalent to a declaration of a state of war" which ultimately would have to be followed up by sending troops abroad.

"This is not a defence bill at all," the Missouri Democrat contended, holding the floor as the first opposition speaker in the Senate debate over the measure. "This is a war bill. This is a bill to implement and put in motion processes almost certain to result in war."

He contended the measure amounted to "guaranteeing a military victory by one belligerent over another."

STATE OF WAR

"We all know," he said, "that that is equivalent to a declaration of a state of war ourselves and must be followed up by sending our ships, our warships, our planes and our guns and our armies to war. Once committed we cannot turn aside."

Clark spoke after Senator Hiram Johnson (Rep.-California) contended the bill would make President Roosevelt "a dictator or worse."

Opening the second day of Senate debate, Clark declared that the measure would "strip" the defence grant "autocratic powers" to the president and reverse traditional American foreign policy.

"NEEDS NO MORE AID"

In a lengthy minority report, Johnson, senior Republican member of the foreign relations committee, reviewed the bill's provisions which would permit the president to transfer war materials to warring democracies and declared Britain needed no aid beyond what she already is getting from the United States.

"No one can read this bill," Johnson wrote, "and doubt that its ultimate effect, if not its declared purpose, will be to take us into war."

Clark indirectly assured the eh-bider opponents of the measure did not intend to filibuster against it.

Debate opened yesterday when supporters of the measure occupied the full day, with Alben Barkley, Dem.-Kentucky, Warren Austin, Rep.-Vermont, and Connally of the Dem. - Florida, the principal speakers.

CALLS BILL "GAMBLE"

Clark charged the bill was a gamble "upon the one card of a complete British victory."

"It should put nations safely on the victory of one belligerent in a foreign war and brings us to the very brink of war while at the same time permitting the serious weakening of our own means of defending ourselves and our brethren in this hemisphere."

As the first speaker against the bill in the Senate debate, Clark urged that there be no "name-calling" and that members give "faith and credence" to the arguments of those with whom they disagree.

Proceeding to "denounce and oppose" the bill, Clark noted that its title claimed the measure would "promote the defence of the United States."

It would do nothing of the kind, he contended.

DENUDE DEFENCES

"It is in fact," he declared, "a bill to authorize the denuding of American defences, to authorize the suspension of any American law inconsistent with the dictatorial powers conferred in the act, and to authorize the arming and feeding and supplying of any country in the world at the expense of American taxpayers in the sole discretion of the President of the United States; to authorize the making of foreign alliances without the concurrence of the Senate as required by the constitution of the United States; to authorize the underwriting of the cost of maintaining the British Empire around the world at the expense of the taxpayers of America; to bring the war to our very doors by affording access to our navy yard and ship yard facilities for the warships of belligerents; virtually to abandon the Monroe doctrine by the abandonment of its vital principle of not participating in Europe's wars."

The Missouri senator said he hoped Great Britain would win "any and all onslaughts of the unspeakable Hitler."

"Much as I admire the heroism of the British defence of their own island—and I may say that I have always believed that the British would be exceedingly tough on their own home grounds where they have so seldom had to fight—I am entirely unwilling to commit this country to a defence of the British Empire around the world.

"I am utterly unwilling to turn over to them articles which we might vitally need for our own defence. I cannot agree that the American people should be called upon to underwrite the expenses of the defence of the British Empire from Hong Kong to Labrador.

"I am unwilling that American taxpayers, already hard-pressed, should be called upon to make sacrifices by the adoption of measures which Canada and New Zealand and Australia have not been called upon to enact."

Wheat Statement By Ottawa Soon

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—(CP)—Trade Minister MacKinnon hopes to make at least a partial announcement of the governments 1941 wheat policy within a few days, he told the House of Commons Monday.

Justice Head To Read Article By Chief Of Police

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Justice Minister Lapointe told the House of Commons Monday he would "certainly read" an article by Commissioner S. T. Wood of the Royal Canadian "ounted Police in a magazine published here (Canadian Spokesman). He said he had not seen it.

Mr. Lapointe answered M. J. Coldwell, acting C.C.F. house leader, who asked if a statement in the article that certain members of parliament were willfully or unwittingly encouraging subversive elements, reflected the view of the department of justice.

HANSON PLANS QUESTIONS ON WAR CONTRACTS

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Conservative leader Hanson gave notice in today's votes and proceedings of the Commons that he will ask the government tomorrow how many cost-plus contracts have been awarded by the government since Sept 1, 1939.

Mr. Hanson also asks to what persons, firms or corporations such contracts were awarded, estimated cost of each contract completed, how many of such contracts have been revised, what is the nature of each revision.

The Conservative house leader also wishes to have similar information on government contracts awarded on the management-fee plan and in what management-fee contracts, if any, has provision been made for a reduction of fee in the event of the ultimate cost exceeding the estimated cost.

Mr. Hanson's final query in this connection is, "in what management-fee contracts, if any, has provision been made for an increase of fee in the event of the ultimate cost being less than the estimated cost?"

NAZIS DISCLAIM RESPONSIBILITY TO FEED VICTIMS

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Nazi spokesmen contended today Germany is not responsible for the feeding of inhabitants in occupied territories.

They thus took issue with Sumner Welles, United States undersecretary of state, who asserted in Washington yesterday that, under international law, Germany is obligated to provide adequate food for scores of inhabitants in occupied lands.

The German spokesmen asserted the U.S. official misunderstood the legal implications of the Hague convention and accused him of "trying to shove responsibility for Germany" for problems which the Germans claim are engendered by the British blockade.

Darlan En Route To Paris To Talk With Otto Abetz

VICHY, Feb. 18—(BUP)—Admiral Jean Francois Darlan left for Paris by automobile today, in his capacity of vice-premier and foreign minister, to confer with Otto Abetz, special German diplomatic envoy, and perhaps with Pierre Laval. Darlan planned to talk first with Fernand De Brinon, French envoy to the German authorities at Paris.

It was understood that one part which Darlan would emphasize in negotiations with Abetz was the necessity for ensuring the cost of maintaining the German occupation army in France. Under the armistice France pays 400,000,000 francs a day nominally $10,000,000) to cover this cost.

NAZIS PRESS GREEK NATION TO QUIT WAR

Bulgaria was "without prejudice to their contracted engagements with other countries."

PREVENT COMPLICATIONS

"Small things can occasionally bring about great events and cause much good. The modest document we have just signed can perhaps prevent complications in the Balkans."

The Bulgarian minister to Ankara was quoted as saying:

Treaty Holds Little Meaning For Turkey

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(CP)—The Turkish-Bulgarian non-aggression agreement "can have little practical meaning for Turkey," authoritative sources said today, because there are "grave doubts" of Bulgaria's ability to pursue an independent course.

Doubts were expressed in official circles over the ability of Bulgaria to exercise freedom of choice over her own foreign policy.

Turkey, these sources said, is completely loyal to Great Britain and kept the British government fully informed throughout the negotiations with Bulgaria.

These negotiations started before the infiltration of German forces in Bulgaria.

The agreement, it was said, implies Bulgaria "does not intend military adventures of any kind" including any military move against Greece.

In authoritative circles, the common view was the pact had left the general situation unchanged, and that Britain still sai full confidence in Greece as a middle eastern bastion and the defender of the Dardanelles.

An informed source said Turkey had opened negotiations with Bulgaria weeks ago — with Britain's knowledge and good will—in the hope of removing Bulgarian suspicions of Turkey and thereby pave the way for general staff arrangements between them.

Many Conferences Preceded Signing

ISTANBUL, Feb. 17—(Delayed)—(CF)—Turkish sources expressed belief today consultations with the Balkan countries and probably Britain, Germany and Russia preceded signing of the Turkish-Bulgarian non-aggression pact.

It was disclosed the agreement was initialled last Friday, but was not signed formally until today (Monday). The formal affair described the signing as a "quiet ceremony."

It was emphasized a clause attached to the pact provided it shall not interfere with existing agreements Bulgaria and Turkey have with other countries.

OTTAWA PLANS GUARD AGAINST CAMP EVASION

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Suspension of a clause of the Naturalization Act to guard against further efforts to evade compulsory military training was described Monday in an order-in-council tabled in the House of Commons.

The clause provided that the name of any child of an alien applying for naturalization could be included in the naturalization certificate, thus providing automatic Canadian citizenship for the child. It also provided that such a child within a year after attaining the majority could make a "declaration of alienage" and thereupon cease to be a British subject.

The order-in-council said the Secretary of State reported certain circumstances alleged had been received which, in effect, would exempt the applicants from compulsory training under the National Resources Mobilization Act.

As a result, the order-in-council was passed, deleting the "declaration of alienage" clause from the act for the duration of the war "and thereafter until such time as the governor-in-council may otherwise order."

ETHIOPIAN ARMS FORCE ITALIANS FROM DANGHELA

BY JAN YINDRICH

CAIRO, Feb. 18—(BUP)—Ethiopian patriots have forced the Italians to evacuate the important post of Danghela, only 175 miles from Addis Ababa, the Middle East Command reported today.

Other large Italian garrisons in the same region of the Ethiopian province of Gojjam have also withdrawn, the Middle East Command said.

It is the first time that Ethiopian rebel activity has been reported so close to Addis Ababa.

It is in this area that Ethiopian rebels, encouraged by the support of British staff officers and news of Emperor Haile Selassie's return to his native country, have been reported increasingly active.

On other fronts, said the High Command, there has been no change in the situation.

Radical Changes In Food Rationing Is Planned In Britain

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(BUP)—Informed quarters predicted today that a radical reorganization of food rationing to eliminate racketeers and assure a more equitable distribution of foodstuffs was imminent.

A spokesman for the food ministry said a change in the rationing system was under consideration, but said reports that individuals would be forbidden to spend more than $5 a week for food were "ridiculous".

TURKEY WILL STAND BEHIND BRITISH PACT

argued the accord meant, among other things:

1—A probable quick peace between Greece and Italy, because Greece could not face both axis powers.

2—That Germany would steer clear of the Dardanelles, vital link between the Russian-dominated Black Sea and the eastern Mediterranean.

(The strategic Dardanelles passage bisects Turkey, separating her European and Asiatic parts.)

3—That a major obstacle to a German march through Bulgaria to Greece and the Mediterranean had been removed.

AXIS VIEWS

German and Italian quarters interpreted the reported understanding to mean that Turkey, despite her status as a non-belligerent ally of Britain, would stand within her own frontiers when and if Hitler's Balkan drive rolls through Bulgaria to attack Greece.

Some informants even doubted that, such a move by Germany would be necessary to cause Greece to yield. They felt that the threat of it, without any opposition in Germany from the Turkish flank, would be enough.

Franz Von Papen, wily Nazi diplomatist, is said to have played a big part in bringing the Turks and the Bulgars together. Von Papen, who was Germany's pre-Anschluss ambassador to Austria, is ambassador to Turkey.

It is believed here that the reported understanding would bring diplomat of the Axis powers in each has concentrated on the other's frontiers.

REMOVE "FOOTHOLD"

The accord came close on the heels of a British warning to Bulgaria that she would become subject to attack if her soil were used for a base for German operations against Greece.

Axis diplomats here contended Greece soon would "see the light" and make peace with Italy and remove Britain's last "small foothold" for continental military operations.

Balkan capitals where German and Italian influence pre-dominates cheered the pact as meaning that war soon would vanish from southeastern Europe and that Germany and Italy would gain their ends there without resorting to further use of arms.

Sources close to the Hungarian government said "this means Turkey will remain neutral and no military operation on a great scale will be necessary."

Yugoslav official quarters claimed the pact explains the haste of Premier Draglia Cvetkovic's response to Hitler's summons to Berchtesgaden last week.

SPEEDY ACTION

Observers in Rumania, which is the base of the Nazi Balkan army of more than 500,000, expressed belief that events will move with lightning speed indeed, now open the way for a clear-cut decision—either Greece heeds the Axis by withdrawing and giving Italy the bases she wanted in the first place, or the German army will roll quickly across Bulgaria and finish off Greece in short order.

"It's up to the Greeks to decide which way they want it," one source close to the Axis claimed.

One thing puzzling diplomatic observers last night was the probable price Russia extracted from Hitler for serving in bringing Turkey around. There were unsubstantiated reports that Hitler would close his eyes to a new move by Stalin against Finland, with a military campaign to finish off the remainder of that little nation to begin when spring weather permits.

Rumania's province of Moldavia figured also as a possible payment to Russia.

Australia Has Complete Plans For Air Defence

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb 18—(BUP)—Acting Prime Minister A. W. Fadden today disclosed existence of a voluminous secret report embracing comprehensive plans for coordinating air raid precautions throughout Australia.

Reading from a report consisting of 106 double foolscap sheets and marked "secret," Fadden revealed that initial steps already had been taken for providing shelters, emergency transport, evacuation of civilians and other aspects of defense.

Latvia who had been sent to Berlin as adviser to Admiral Hiroshi Oshima, the newly-arrived Japanese ambassador, was named minister at large and in that capacity assigned to Berlin.

Koh Iahii, chief of the cabinet information bureau, a post corresponding to that of propaganda minister, made the peace statement.

Asserting that Japan had been surprised at the concern shown by some countries over Far Eastern tension, he said Japan could see no reason for alarm. He said Japan's alliance with Germany and Italy was an entirely peaceful one and then added:

"We can not help feeling, therefore, a certain amount of anxiety if not misgivings as to the extraordinary precautions of the British and American governments to meet supposed contingencies in the Pacific and the South seas."

Japan, Ishii said, could see no reason to provoke war. Mentioning only Britain specifically, he said that the present situation demanded statesmanship and that Japan hoped it would not be wanting.

"In conclusion," he said, "we want to make it clear that Japan is fully prepared to act as mediator or to take whatever action is calculated to restore normal conditions not only in East Asia but in the world where in the world. The leading powers have a great responsibility in restoring the world to its pacification, and such responsibility can only be fulfilled by wise and generous statesmanship which is willing to listen to the claims and contentions of others."

The statement was read in advance of the arrival of Robert Craigie, the British ambassador, made to Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka Saturday and the urgent American government warnings to Americans to leave the far eastern trouble zone.

Craigie was understood to have expressed to Matsuoka the same misgivings as to Japanese acts which Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, had expressed to Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese ambassador at London. Informed quarters were inclined to interpret Ishii's statement as intended to convince the world that Japan was without intentions.

There was a tendency also to believe that Japan was now eager to avoid giving the impression of the United States and Britain at the moment.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 18—(BUP)—American marine officers said today that 1,000 marines will begin withdrawal at present from Tientsin and Peiping in northern China. Commercial Press Dispatches also reporting a withdrawal, they said that those marines who are now leaving the country are being replaced by new arrivals.

SUBVENTIONS FOR SHIPPING OF COAL SHOW INCREASE

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—An additional $500,000 for subventions on coal shipped from Alberta and British Columbia mines to central Canada markets is provided for in the main estimates for the 1941-42 fiscal year tabled in the House of Commons Monday.

The estimated expenditure for such payments is $4,500,000 for the 12 months beginning next April 1, compared with $4,000,000 in the estimates for 1940-41.

The money goes toward freight costs for moving the coal to Ontario and Quebec so it can compete on an equal price footing with coal imported from the United States.

F. G. Bradley, commissioner of the coal administrator, said late today the increase was asked to provide for the increased movement of coal from the Atlantic area and Alberta.

At the present rate of expenditure, subventions amounted to about $4,300,000 a year and a supplementary estimate would be needed to pay the additional $360,000.

The Alberta movement was about 154,000 tons in 1940, and the subventions amounted to $385,000.

Henderson Would Brain Hitler He Tells Audience

OXFORD, England, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Sir Neville Henderson, pre-war ambassador to Germany, told an audience here Monday the order in which he would erase the Nazi leadership—and Hitler was listed third.

"If I were given a gun and told to take two shots," Sir Neville said, "I would aim first at Himmler, then Ribbentrop and brain Hitler with the butt of the rifle."

The former ambassador said he considered Heinrich Himmler, the head of the German police and Foreign Minister Ribbentrop the real leaders of Germany ahead of Hitler.

"There is no question," he said, "of internal revolution in Germany. You can not raise a revolt against machine-guns and tommy-guns unless there is something I can see breaking and that is Hitler himself."

Somewhat "Ironic" Fate Of Fascists

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Statements built by the Italians beside roads they constructed in Africa proved to be somewhat "ironic" after the Fascists were forced to retire before the British advances, the British Broadcasting Corporation said Sunday night. On the monuments were these words: "Rome advances with her roads."

Canada Expected To Produce Better Cheese In 1941-42

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—(CP)—The expectation Canada will produce more cheese and better cheese this year than in 1940 was indicated in an increased vote for bonuses on cheese and improvement of cheese factories in the 1942 estimates brought down Monday.

The government gives a bonus of one cent a pound for high quality cheese which is extended to two cents a pound if the cheese reaches the top grade. The vote last year to meet this expenditure as well as factory improvement was $1,000,000 and for this year it has been increased to $1,250,000.

BIG FINANCIAL BURDEN FACES ALL CANADIANS would desire to hear the finance minister's explanation of the resolution at once.

If the resolution passed Mr. Ilsley said, it would be followed by a bill similar in its terms to the War Appropriation Act passed last year. This would have three main features, as follows:

1—A vote of credits.

2—Granting of borrowing authority to the government.

3—Power to make temporary recoverable loans to any allied government.

The only substantial change from last year's act was that power was provided for re-expending moneys accruing from repaid loans and reimbursements from government owned enterprises, without obtaining new appropriations.

WAR EXPENDITURES

The minister estimated the Dominion's war expenditures in the present fiscal year at $875,000,000 and said expenses in this direction from last April 1 to last Jan. 31 had been $538,800,000.

He also told the house that war costs during 1941-42 probably would exceed considerably the total of the war appropriations bill—$1,300,000,000—and in this event he would ask the house for another appropriation.

War costs, together with total government costs would mean that more than half the national income would have to be raised by governments from the people of the Dominion. He gave $2,700,000,000 as the amount that must be obtained.

Mr. Ilsley said a supplementary war appropriation bill for the present fiscal year would be necessary before the end of March 31.

The sum appropriation last session was $700,000,000 and the necessity for a further bill to authorize expenditures necessary over and above the sum of $700,000,000.

ACTUAL CASH OUTLAY

Mr. Ilsley said actual cash outlay up to Jan. 31 was $536,803,000. This did not include $27,000,000 of disbursements recoverable from the United Kingdom or other allied governments.

AMERICANS TO GO TO WAR IF NEED ARISES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Energetically backing the lease-lend bill, Senator Warren Austin startled the United States Senate Monday and provoked crowded galleries into a burst of applause with a shouted assertion that "if it ever becomes necessary for us to fight we will fight."

The Vermont Republican had been engaged in a spirited colloquy with Senator Burton Wheeler (Dem., Wash.) on the advisability of including an amendment in the bill forbidding the sending of American persons or ships into war zones. Bone argued that such action would be "better than war."

"It would certainly be worse than war," Austin declared. "It's worse than death, and a country whose boys will not go out and fight to save the ideals of freedom from destruction by a fiend—you won't find such boys."

His statement about the United States fighting followed

A few minutes later Senator Burton Wheeler (Dem., Mont.), a leading foe of the bill, said he did not want the United States "to get into a position where we say we are ready to join some other nation to protect the country."

Then Senator Claude Pepper (Dem., Fla.) said the American people would not let Britain fall to Hitler—"call it war or not call it war."

Pepper said that if the legislation failed to save Britain from defeat, "we'll save them anyway."

"The American people will not let England fall. And whether we like it or not they'll drive us into action."

Japanese Troops In Large Number Occupy Islands

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Feb. 18.—(AP)—A reliable foreign source reported tonight that 80,000 to 90,000 Japanese troops now are stationed on the islands of Romosa and Hainan.

This supported similar reports from Shanghai last week, but indicated there had been no recent large increase in Japanese forces at the islands.

BRITISH SHIP LOSSES DOWN WEEK OF FEB. 9

LONDON, Feb. 18. — (CP) — British and Allied merchant shipping losses during the week ended Feb. 9 were 13 ships, totalling 29,806 tons, the Admiralty reported today.

At the same time, it said total enemy losses since the outbreak of hostilities amounted to "over 2,000,000 gross tons."

The British and Allied merchant shipping losses, the Admiralty said, were less than half the average total weekly loss since the beginning of the war.

They included nine British ships totalling 19,364 tons, and four Allied vessels of 10,442 tons.

The Admiralty said the German claimed to have sunk 102,500 tons during the week, and the Italians 5,200 tons, for a total Axis claim "over three times the true figure."

In its statement, the Admiralty added: "Since the beginning of the war the Germans have lost by capture, sinking and scuttling, a total gross tonnage of 1,330,000, and the Italians a total of 633,000. In addition, 60,000 gross tons of neutral shipping under enemy control is useful to the enemy have been sunk."

TWO ADDITIONAL NAZI DESTROYERS SUNK AT NARVIK

LONDON, Feb. 18—(CP)—The admiralty announced today it had been informed two German destroyers, in addition to the nine originally announced, were sunk in the battles of Narvik, Norway, last April.

Naval circles said the vessels were the Bruno Heinemann and the George Thiele.

(Jane's Fighting Ships lists the warships as vessels of 1,625 tons. The George Thiele was launched in 1935 and the Bruno Heinemann a year later.)

It was said they were sunk April 10 or April 13.

ITALIANS BLOW UP MUNITIONS DURING FLIGHT

ATHENS, Feb. 18—(AP)—The Italians were reported today to be blowing up munitions stores as they retreated in the central and southern sector of the Albanian front under hammering of Greek troops.

Dispatches from the front said Italian losses in dead and wounded were the heaviest since the war began Oct. 28. The ground was said to be covered with bodies of hundreds of Italians as the Greeks pressed on, capturing one position after another.

A number of Italian tanks were reported destroyed by Greek fire in one action.

A Greek spokesman, elaborating a government communique which summarized the fighting as "strong local engagements," said last night that Greeks captured two heights and completed occupation of a "whole region taken recently."

Research Costs Are Increased In Coming Year

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 — (CP)—Estimates tabled in the House of Commons today showed an estimated increase of $18,471 for salaries and other expenses of the National Research Council.

Total research Council appropriation for 1941-42 is $832,625 against $814,154 last year. Appropriation not required for last year amounted to $18,575.

The estimates tabled today covered undertakings not connected with the war. The research council has conducted research into matters of vital importance to Canada's military effort.

U.K. LEGATION AT SOFIA NOT BEING CLOSED

Britain Denies Intention Of Severing Diplomatic Relations

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(CP)—An official spokesman denied today a report that Britain intended to withdraw her legation from Sofia. He described the report as "a typical piece of German propaganda."

By HUGO SPECK

SOFIA, Feb. 18.—(BUP)—Great Britain warned Bulgaria today that "German movements" may cause severance of diplomatic relations and draw Bulgaria directly into the war.

The warning came in less than 24 hours after announcement of a Bulgarian - Turkish non - aggression agreement which diplomats believed left the way wide open for Germany to march into Bulgaria.

The statement of British position was offered by British Minister George Rendel. He declared that Germany and Germany alone would be responsible if war came to Bulgaria.

He said:

"If Bulgaria loses her neutrality and war is brought to Bulgaria it will be solely and directly on the initiative of the Germans.

"Whether the British legation remains here depends solely upon German movement."

Rendel's frank declaration recalled authoritative reports prior to severance of British-Rumanian relations that Great Britain had warned Bulgaria she would reply to the entry of German troops by ordering the Royal Air Force to bomb Bulgarian military objectives.

Despite the British statements there was general relief and satisfaction at the agreement in Bulgarian involvement in the war.

The authoritative newspaper, Slovo, said that the "declaration has assured peace in the eastern Balkans" and probably has "localized the present war between the Aegean and the Adriatic."

Despite contrary opinions which prevailed in diplomatic quarters generally, reliable British sources here continued to insist that the Turkish-Bulgarian declaration does not affect Turkey's commitments to Britain. They claimed that there still is no assurance that Turkey will not fight if the Germans move to aid Italy against Greece.

Canada's Prime Minister Reviews Foreign Affairs Before Members Of House

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the House of Commons Monday reviewed foreign affairs, including the war situation. Following is a partial text of the Prime Minister's statement:

When early in December, just before the adjournment of the House, I spoke of the war, I gave reasons for the view that the situation for Britain and her Allies was much better than it had been, not only at the time of the collapse of France, but in the months that followed that appalling catastrophe. The development of events has borne out the justness of that view.

In the United Kingdom night bombing raids, which were then the subject of so much anxiety, have become not more, but less, effective. Submarine attacks, though continuing to constitute the gravest menace have, in fact, in recent weeks, grown not more, but less destructive.

In spite of enemy attempts at interference, the output of British industry has developed at a faster tempo and on a wider scale. On land, on sea and in the air the defences of the British Isles have been materially strengthened. The morale of the British people has remained unshaken. If anything, the entire population has become more determined than ever.

ROYAL AIR FORCE

In Europe the Royal Air Force has effected large scale destruction of industrial plants and agencies of communication, and of naval and air bases, particularly those used for invasion ports. The British navy has continued to patrol waters adjacent to the British shores, and to protect the transportation of men, munitions and supplies to and from the British Isles and other parts of the Empire.

In the African campaigns, the whole situation has changed, from one of grave uncertainty for the British, to one of the greatest concern for Italy. Spectacular victories have been gained over the enemy in the field.

Across the Mediterranean, in Albania, the Italians have fared no better. The Greek army, fighting with a valor worthy of the finest traditions of classical times, has since this house adjourned inflicted on the Italians a whole series of defeats.

Thus far reinforcements from across the Adriatic have wholly failed to reverse the tide of battle.

The crystallization of opinion in the United States in favor of actively assisting the democratic countries in their struggle against aggression, has been the most important event of the present year and the months immediately preceding.

PRE-WAR POLICY

The earlier policy of the United States was devised before the war started. It was based upon an assumption which ignored the real character of the present struggle. American ships were withdrawn from British waters and forbidden to enter the war zone, the belligerents were allowed to buy only what they could pay for and themselves carry away. Purchases were limited to such as could be made in the course of normal business.

The unanswerable logic of events has brought home to the American people the realization that their future development, their security, the survival of the democratic way of life, are all bound up inseparably with defence of Britain and the defeat of aggression. The President's message to Congress, one of the most important in his great career, sets forth in words which cannot be misunderstood, a new policy of full material support of the democracies in resisting aggression.

To the whole democratic world however that policy has brought fresh hope and renewed resolution. The United States is without question the most powerful economic unit in the world. In terms of national income, a recognized measure of economic strength, it outweighs Germany at least four to one. The United States has an annual output more than twice as great as all Europe. The forces against which the mobilization of this vast, this unrivalled industrial power is directed, must eventually feel the full weight of the impact. Meanwhile, growing might towers like an impending avalanche above the heads of the aggressor nations.

MATERIAL ASSISTANCE

That the material assistance of the United States on the scale contemplated will in the long run be of decisive importance there can be no shadow of doubt. We must make sure, however, that there is a long run. A very critical stage is certain to be reached before the full aid of the United States becomes available.

As I pointed out in a broadcast a fortnight ago, there are many indications that in the immediate future the enemy will make a tremendous effort to destroy the British Commonwealth by a series of smashing blows of unprecedented severity. The skies are full of sure signs of a gathering storm.

Where the storm will break we cannot say. It may come in the Near East, or in the Western Mediterranean, or in the far East, or over itself. It may come in more than one place at the same time. Signs are not lacking that it may come in all these places at once.

Among diplomatic and military authorities there is a growing belief in the possibility of a world-wide conflagration involving an attempted German invasion of Britain timed with threats at Singapore. The German air force and army may try to break Britain; simultaneously the combined Axis powers may try to seize Britain's most strategic positions, Suez and Singapore.

DICTATORS' AIM

It would be the gravest of errors to assume that growing alarm and tension in the Balkans mean that Hitler is abandoning for the time being attack upon the British Isles. It is British power that Hitler is out to destroy, and the seat of it is the island fortress in the North Sea.

It is no less apparent that the destruction of British power is the bond that cements the Axis powers. Only by the defeat of Britain can the combined totalitarian powers gain their world ends.

That the forces of freedom will triumph in the end I have no doubt; but equally I believe, as I have already so frequently said, that the road is going to be much harder, much longer and much more terrible than most people imagine. We should govern our thoughts and actions accordingly. The enemy must be held back until his strength can be matched.

That day will not come soon. Long, grim months lie ahead, in which we must expect set-backs and discouragements. In the present circumstances it is more than ever necessary to steel our hearts and minds to the magnitude of the effort and of the sacrifice that will be demanded of us over a considerable period of time and, in especial measure throughout the next few months. We are too prone to think of the outcome of the last Great War and to draw our conclusions from it.

JAPANESE EXPANSION

Recent statements of Japanese political leaders have encouraged an atmosphere of impending crises. They have likewise marked out a wide field for possible Japanese invasion southward. We shall continue to hope that the wiser counsels of those who deprecate leaders in Japan will ultimately prevail.

It is, however, only the part of prudence to observe that what is in the statements of some of the Japanese leaders and in the movements of Japanese forces, there are indications that Japan may be led to take aggressive action at the moment that may best serve the common cause of the aggressor nations.

The forces arrayed against us are not only greater than in the last war. They occupy a strategic position far more favorable than they did in the last war.

The very assurance of moral support, of moral and material help from the United States, is not without its bearing upon the immediate problem. With the long term issue automatically decided against the enemy if he remains the active, Germany must now stake everything on a supreme effort to destroy the British Commonwealth before the resources of the United States are fully mobilized.

HITLER'S PLAN

We may be perfectly sure that this is Hitler's plan of campaign. No man can tell how fast or how far the red fires of war will spread before the conflagration can be brought under control. The determining factor in the matter of time is likely to be the situation as it develops in the ensuing weeks in Europe itself. Should the attack at the outset be directed wholly or in part against Britain, we have much to fortify us in our belief in the effectiveness of the resistance which the German forces will encounter.

It was an appreciation of all these factors which led Mr. Churchill to describe 1941 as a "waiting year." It will be a year of guarding every inch of ground, of gathering together equipment and munitions, of perfecting the training of men, and the organization and co-ordination of forces. If it is impossible that there will be any major attack upon enemy-occupied Europe during the present year, it is equally imperative that no opportunity for preparation should be neglected.

A program for 1941, based on the utilization of Canada's utmost productive capacity, has been drawn up in complete agreement with the British government. The measures which have been decided upon are being timed to fit into the programs of the admiralty, the war office, the air ministry and the supply departments of the United Kingdom. Early this month, in a radio address to the Canadian people on the war savings campaign, I outlined the plans which have been worked out.

FULL CO-OPERATION

In none of its important aspects has Canada's war effort been planned in isolation. We engaged in the war as partners in a common enterprise. If our effort is to fit into the efforts of the other British nations to produce a strong unified whole, our plans must be made in consultation with them.

This does not mean that the Canadian government is not finally responsible for what is done by Canada, but it does mean that, in reaching our final decision, we discuss our plans with those with whom we are co-operating. Plans must, as I have so often said, be modified constantly to meet the shifting needs of war. This implies constant consultation, in every field, military, economic and financial.

From time to time, it has been suggested, in Canada, in other of the dominions and also in Great Britain, that an imperial war cabinet or an imperial war council should be set up in London to give unified direction to the prosecution of the war by the nations of the British Commonwealth.

At the present time there is a means of effective communication and consultation in all matters pertaining to the war, something infinitely more comprehensive than anything which has existed at any previous time. I doubt indeed if a more efficient arrangement could possibly be made.

REAL ADVANTAGE

The real but invisible imperial council made possible by these means of constant and instantaneous conference has one all-important advantage which would be denied to an imperial war council sitting in London.

It affords the prime minister of each of the dominions the opportunity of discussing immediately with his colleagues in his own cabinet all aspects of every question raised. His expression of view, when given, is his alone—it is the expression of view of the cabinet of which he is the head.

It is an expression of view given by the cabinet in the light of its responsibility to parliament. It is, moreover, an expression of view given in the atmosphere, not of London, but of the dominion itself.

The possibility of immediate personal contact between the prime minister of Canada and the president of the United States in critical situations affecting the relations between the United States and the British Commonwealth, may easily be more important to the common cause than any service which a prime minister of Canada could render at the council table in London.

The United national support of each dominion for its war effort will continue throughout the war to be more important than all else. Under constantly changing conditions, that unity will, I believe, be better maintained by the presence of the prime minister at the head of the administration at home than at the council table in London. And what I have said about the prime minister of Canada applies equally with respect to the prime ministers of the other self-governing dominions.

HIGH COMMISSIONER

I should like to say a word respecting the splendid work which Mr. Massey (Hon. Vincent Massey, Canadian high commissioner in London) and his staff are performing. Their devotion, in difficult and often dangerous circumstances, is beyond praise. Mr. Massey himself has discharged his manifold and exacting duties with quite exceptional skill, discretion, and patience. He is a representative of whom all Canadians have every reason to be proud.

It has been the settled policy of the government not to extend diplomatic representation to countries in Europe during the continuation of hostilities. We are, however, continuing to maintain our diplomatic representation in the governments of Belgium and Holland, which, forced to flee from their own capitals, have been set up in London.

These countries, neutral during the first eight months of the war, are now allies, and though their countries have been overrun and at present lie subjected to the German invaders, they continue to control rich colonial empires and large mercantile fleets of great value to the Allied cause.

Mr. Jean Desy, Canadian minister to Belgium and Holland, has returned to Canada, but we are maintaining a chargé d'affaires in London to keep in touch with these governments and to deal with the whom we are co-operating. Plans must, as I have so often said, be modified constantly to meet the shifting needs of war. This implies constant consultation, in every field, military, economic and financial.

FRENCH RELATIONS

Diplomatic relations with France are on a slightly different footing. Col. George P. Vanier, our minister at Paris, has returned to Canada, and has been asked, in view of his military training and experience, to serve on the Canadian section of the permanent joint board and defence. Mr. Pierre Dupuy, formerly on the staff of the Paris legation, is, however, remaining in London, where, among other duties, he is continuing to have regard for the needs and the repatriation of Canadian nationals, who were unable to make an escape at the time of the invasion.

Few, if any, events have affected Canadians more profoundly than the tragic fate that has befallen France. We have not permitted her misfortunes to lessen our efforts on her behalf. Convinced that we are fighting her battle as well as our own, we are continuing our diplomatic relations with her, in the firm belief that whatever the pressure put upon her by an unscrupulous enemy, France will suffer herself to be destroyed before she will take up arms against Britain, or permit her fleet or naval bases on the Mediterranean to fall into German hands.

The diplomatic position with respect to France is, of course, more delicate than with the other two countries I have mentioned, because of the fact that the French government, overwhelmed by the German onslaught, has entered into an armistice with the enemy.

HEAVY BURDENS

We in Canada, however, have no wish to add to the heavy burdens and difficulties which she is facing under the heel of a ruthless and arrogant conqueror, and so long as France takes no action that is contrary to the interest of Canada or her allies, there are the strongest of reasons why we should continue our present relations.

We are well aware of the pressure which the enemy is exerting to secure her collaboration in the organization of Europe under German hegemony and control. We will, however, do nothing to stir up bitterness or recrimination over what is past, but will ever seek to encourage the French people to remain true to their great tradition and to find once again their historic position in Europe and their high place in the comity of nations.

The situation in the far east, of which I spoke quite frankly in this House Nov. 12, has unfortunately continued to give cause for growing apprehension — an apprehension which is not lessened by the recent Japanese intervention as a mediator in the dispute between French Indo-China and Thailand, the new name for the old kingdom of Siam. As I have already said, the utterances of some Japanese statesmen have been far from conciliatory.

The decision of the Japanese government to break itself with Germany and Italy, under certain conditions, has undoubtedly greatly increased the tension in the whole Pacific area. We have done what we could do to lessen that tension and to avoid any occasion for its further development.

FEELING IN B.C.

We have been glad to welcome to Ottawa the new minister from Japan, Mr. Sedjiro Yoshizawa, who has come to take the post ably filled during the past two years by Baron Tomii. In a period when national passions are aroused, a period which is marked by so much suspicion of motives and of aims, when it is so easy to engender misunderstanding and ill-will, we have tried to avoid any occasion for provocation or offence, we have sought to avoid propagandist activity, we have followed developments with forbearance and restraint, and have done our utmost to conserve a measure of goodwill in a stiffe-torn world.

Partly, perhaps, as a result of growing tension in the Far East, we recently witnessed an unfortunate recrudescence of anti-Oriental and particularly anti-Japanese feeling in British Columbia. This campaign was characterized by wholly unsubstantiated and irresponsible charges and accusations against our fellow nationals and other residents of British Columbia, who are of Japanese racial origin.

As a result, public opinion was becoming aroused and unjustified fears were being entertained.

In order to obtain a complete and accurate picture of the actual situation on the Pacific coast, the government appointed a special committee composed of persons with a particular knowledge of British Columbia and of the Japanese. This committee made a careful investigation and has presented a report and recommendations which have now been tabled in parliament. The government has approved the report and is carrying its recommendations into effect. . . .

U.S. RELATIONS

In a world in which the old methods of free and open discussion, and the old objectives of close and friendly collaboration between national have been so greatly curtailed, and over so large an area have disappeared altogether, it is a matter of special satisfaction that, in spite of the stresses and strains of war, our relations with our great neighbor, the United States, have, if anything, become more cordial, friendly, helpful, and constructive. It is particularly gratifying also to see that there exists not only between our two governments but between our two nations, so perfect an understanding. . . .

May I say that I have been amazed, and I might add, in the circumstances, not a little pained to observe recently slighting and belittling references to Mr. Christie, Liaring Christie, minister at Washington, who spent two years of his life in the public service, even in the most responsible posts, are rarely well known to the general persons know little of the contribution they have made to the solution of difficult questions, or the administration of public affairs. . . .

NOT NEGLECTED

I can assure the house that Canada's interests at Washington have not been allowed to suffer in consequence of Mr. Christie's illness. It is apparent, however, that Mr. Christie's condition of health will necessitate immediate provision for addition or other representation at Washington. The matter has been under review and I expect to be in a position to make an announcement with respect thereto in the course of a few days. . . .

For some years both Brazil and Argentina have expressed a desire to enter into diplomatic relations with Canada. They have recently named ministers to Ottawa. We will be glad to welcome them to Canada, not only in their personal and representative capacities, but as a further evidence of the growing importance of these countries and of the close and cordial relations which happily exist between Canada and South America.

Provision is being made in the estimates for the establishment of Canadian legations in the Argentine and Brazil. When the necessary appropriations have been made I hope to be in a position to announce the names of the Canadian representatives to both of these countries.

I should perhaps add that approaches have been made by other Latin American republics looking to an exchange of ministers with Canada. Their position however is somewhat different. While I should not wish it to be understood that further extension of our representation is contemplated at the moment, I should wish it to be known that the government will continue to give the most friendly consideration to the general question. . . .

TRIBUTE TO SKELTON

It would seem most fitting that I should conclude this review of Canada's external affairs and of our present international relations without reference to the loss Canada has sustained since the house last met in the passing of one of the noblest of her sons and one of the greatest of her public servants, whose life was so completely indentified with world affairs—Dr. O. D. Skelton, former undersecretary of state for external affairs. . . .

The name of Dr. Skelton deserves honor on the lips and in the hearts of all Canadians. While he asked for no reward while he lived, he would be humbly proud to know that in the remembrance of his life and labor, Canadians found a new dedication and a continuing devotion to national unity, international good will, and to the thoughtful and unselfish labor without which they cannot be maintained.

COMMONS GIVES RIGHT-OF-WAY TO GOVERNMENT

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—In the face of a warning by Prime Minister Mackenzie King that "a great crisis" is "approaching rapidly", the House of Commons Monday adopted without a vote, a resolution to clear the tracks for government business for the remainder of the session.

Private members will thus forego their customary right on certain days to discuss their own resolutions.

Opposition leader Hanson and M. J. Coldwell, acting leader of the C.C.F. party, objected and suggested private members be given at least Monday and Wednesday.

T. L. Church (Con., Toronto-Broadview) protested vigorously that constitutional rights of members were being ignored.

"No man has fought more of the supremacy of parliament and acted more like a dictator than the present prime minister," he declared.

Mr. King said he would not want to take the responsibility of leading the house into a discussion of non-urgent matters at a time of such national gravity.

This motion, he said, would eliminate the cumbersome plotting of certain days to the consideration of private members resolutions.

WINNIPEG MISS CROWNED QUEEN OF BANFF GALA

BANFF, Alta., Feb. 18.—A slim vivacious brunette, Miss Pat Whiting of Winnipeg, is Banff's new carnival queen. Equally at home on tricky ski slope, skating rink, or ballroom floor, her sportsmanship displayed in the queen nomine sports tests, and her gracious manner at all times, won the hearts of judges and crowds to such an extent that announcement of her unanimous selection by the judges was greeted with vociferous acclaim.

And the crown that voiced its approval was the largest ever worn at a Banff winter carnival. So great was it that the Banff bridge, long at it, was found more cordial, friendly, helpful, and constructive. It is particularly gratifying also to see that there exists not only between our two governments but between our two nations, so perfect an understanding. . . .

May I say that I have been amazed, and I might add, in the circumstances, not a little pained to observe recently slighting and belittling references to Mr. Christie, Liaring Christie, minister at Washington, who spent two years of his life in the public service, even in the most responsible posts, are rarely well known to the general persons know little of the contribution they have made to the solution of difficult questions, or the administration of public affairs. . . .

King Excerpts

The African campaign the whole situation has changed from one of grave uncertainty for the British to one of the gravest concern for Italy.

. . . The whole Italian empire in Africa is vanishing before the eyes of the world.

The Fascist regime has been discredited in the eyes of its own people. The Italian people are not, and in this war have never been, behind Mussolini.

The rapid crystallization of opinion in the United States in favor of actively assisting the democratic countries in their struggle against aggression has been the most important event of the present year and the months immediately preceding.

The unanswerable logic of events has brought home to the American people the realization that their future development, their security, the survival of the democratic way of life, are all bound up inseparably with the defence of Britain and the defeat of aggression.

Meanwhile its (the United States) growing might towers like an impending avalanche above the heads of the aggressor nations.

A very critical stage is certain to be reached before the full aid of the United States becomes available.

The skies are full of sure signs of a gathering storm.

There is a growing belief in the possibility of a world-wide conflagration in involving an attempted invasion of Britain timed with threats at Suez and Gibraltar and a Japanese thrust at Singapore.

That the forces of freedom will triumph in the end I have no doubt whatever. But equally I believe that the road is going to be much harder, much longer, and much more terrible than most people imagine.

The enemy must be held back until his strength can be matched. That day will not come soon.

No man can tell how fast or how far the fires of war will spread before the conflagration can be brought under control.

New Minister Is Elected, Ontario

FLESHERTON, Ont., Feb. 18.—(CP)—Hon. Farquhar R. Oliver, was re-elected member of the provincial legislature for Grey South by acclamation when he was unopposed as nominations closed Monday. Mr. Oliver, who has represented the constituency as an independent United Farmers of Ontario member, was appointed minister of public works by Premier Hepburn last month. Calling of an election was necessitated by his appointment to the cabinet.

$8,000,000 IS PROVIDED FOR JOB INSURANCE

Item Is Included In Department Of Labor Estimates

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Federal government contribution of $8,000,000 to unemployment insurance was provided for in estimates tabled in the Commons Monday.

In addition, provision was made for $4,700,000 for Unemployment Insurance Act administration in 1941-42 against $2,000,000 in this classification in 1940-41.

The $8,000,000 item was included in labor department estimates which showed a decrease in one item—relief projects—of $17,544,000, required in 1940-41 to provide for relief projects. No provision in this category was made for 1941-42.

Provision for relief settlement agreements with provinces was cut from $500,000 in 1940-41 to $75,000. Amount sought for contributions to the youth training program stood unchanged at $1,500,000.

Declines were shown in administration of the Employment Offices Co-ordination Act, where administration costs were down $53,810 to $28,180. Payments to provinces in connection with organization and co-ordination of employment offices were estimated as being cut in half for 1941-42 at $75,000.

Payments to provinces for encouragement of technical education were estimated at $10,000 less, with a total of $50,000 for the coming year.

Contributions to plans for rehabilitations of unemployed higher age persons will be $170,000 lower at $125,000. Administration expenses, including temporary appointments, were estimated by the labor department to be down $151,564 at $146,-936. Those expenses concerning unemployment relief and youth training, national registration and treasury duties.

A Chance To Help

The committee in charge of the war savings campaign in Edmonton need seven hundred canvassers who will go about from door to door asking people to buy savings certificates and stamps regularly, and in stated amounts. There should be no difficulty in getting the number required. Rather it might be supposed the committee is liable to be swamped by a rush of volunteers.

This is an opportunity to do war service of a very practical and very important kind. It is a type of service for which women are as well qualified as men, and more women than men have the time to spare. The duty of a canvasser who is deeply concerned in the outcome of the war will be a pleasant one. He or she will not be asking people to give away money; but to lend it, with the best possible security, and to get in return as high a rate of interest as a patriotic citizen should want his Government to pay.

A similar canvass is to be made in every city, town and village across the Dominion. The object is to enroll an army of 2,000,000 Canadians who will buy a month by month savings certificates and stamps to the total amount of $10,000,000. Edmonton people, who are generally well informed as to the urgency of the effort, and the personal advisability of buying as many certificates as possible, may be counted on to make the task of the canvassers an easy one. These may find they have little to do except jot down the names of the house-holders and the amounts they have already decided to buy.

The Admiral Remembers

Thirty-six years ago Japanese warships sailed into the harbor of Vladivostock and sank a Russian squadron at anchor there. No declaration of war had been issued. Nominally the two countries were at peace. The Russian commander was not expecting attack. He was relying upon the accepted law of nations that one country would not launch its forces against those of another without formally declaring its intention to do so.

World opinion at the time was anti-Russia, in part because of the tendency shown to be weak power attacking a strong one, and the deliberate violation of international law passed with little adverse comment abroad. But it was none the less a violation.

It was also an advertisement of the Japanese fear that the time to go to war should be started when an advantage can be so gained. Toyko has not yet declared war against China. After two years of fighting its premier used language which was constructable as a negation of war, but only so construable if one chose to read this meaning into it.

It should not therefore surprise the world to learn that the sea approaches to Singapore have been mined by the British authorities there. To neglect this precaution in the present circumstances would be criminal folly. If Tokyo choses to resent this as a reflection upon its fairness, that will only be pretending to a virtue it does not possess if its record means anything. By its term of office of course, the Admiral in Singapore has only shown good sense and a sound memory.

They Got Out Again

The Rome radio surprised the world by announcing that British parachute troops floated down out of the moonlit skies the other night and landed in southern Italy. The announcer added that some of the men were captured. "Some" was the key-word of the statement, for it implied that some got away. British official reports confirmed this admission by stating that a number of the chutists returned safely to their bases. Rome despatches on Saturday significantly stated that railway service had been suspended on lines in southern Italy—without explaining why.

The story behind the guarded news seems fairly clear. The troops landed, blew up railway bridges or junctions—and some of them got out of the country. The latter is the important point. Parachute troops have recently landed in many countries. Railway bridges have been blown up in many places. It is something new for parachute invaders to get out of an enemy country in which they had landed.

That is an improvement on totalitarian technique, and in the circumstances a very important improvement. The returning invaders brought back more or less information as to the defences of southern Italy, and what they did others will probably also be able to do. While nothing is said on the subject, it may be suspected they escaped with the assistance of anti-Fascist Italians. Enough is known of the spread of anti-Fascist feeling to warrant the supposition—and a hope that a substantial part of the population of Italy will welcome and assist British-Allied troops whether they enter the country by parachute or otherwise.

Plane Production Lags

With characteristic frankness, Hon. C. G. Power last week stated that the Commonwealth Air Training scheme has been hampered by a lack of training planes; a lack due to the failure of the airplane factories to turn out machines as fast as their schedule called for. This was not altogether news for Mr. Howe some weeks ago exposed the failure, from which the reaction upon the training scheme could be inferred.

Canadian factories at the end of December had delivered only 800 planes of 5000 ordered. Though not all of this number were due to be delivered by that date, the delivery ratio was badly out of line, as badly that until July the air training system will be on "very thin ice" as to equipment.

But Mr. Power added, significantly, that the opening of new schools and the general development of the training scheme is to proceed regardless of the shortage; the needed planes will just have to come from somewhere, whether from a phenomenal speeding up of Canadian factories or purchases abroad. This, most will agree, is the right course. We must not be done in increase home production or make up for the lack of it, the training scheme must not be geared down. Production or purchase must be brought up to the training needs; not the training schedule cut down to keep pace with slow production of planes.

No doubt reasons can be given, reasons based on facts, for the failure of the producing plants to attain the required volume of production. But no reason can warrant a continuance of the scarcity of training machines if these can be bought anywhere; much less a curtailment of the training plan just because Canadian factories are not able to keep in step.

President Roosevelt evidently thinks the way to get what you want is to ask for more, and thus be able to weaken opposition by conceding non-essential points. Administration spokesmen in the Senate made a "surprise" offer to delete the blank cheque feature of the Lease-Lend bill. That ditched the argument that the bill would give the President powers of a dictator—and leaves the Senators who opposed the bill on this ground no consistent course but to support it.

That the recently established cancer clinic was needed is shown by the large number of persons who apply each week for examination. These come from all parts of the province, and the number does not suggest that this ailment is more prevalent in Edmonton than in other cities. The clinic is designed to detect the disease in early stages of development, when curative treatment is possible. Its usefulness must hinge largely on the willingness of those who think they may be afflicted to submit to diagnosis. It is to be hoped there will be readiness on the part of all such to avail themselves of the service offered.

From The News

By Harold L. Weir

It may very well be that Japan's next decisive step may turn out to be the crux of the war.

With all-out American aid, Britain can crush the totalitarian easily and within the space of two or three years. Without that aid, the war will drag out much longer and Germany, so the Nazis think, will have a sporting chance to win.

In Hitler's mind, the business of stopping the United States must take first place of importance. That is why he is employing skilful propagandists and agents provocateurs to poison and pervert American public opinion.

The next few weeks may disclose the identity of one agent provocateur in such a high place as will surprise everybody and force this reporter to eat certain kind words. It is well to remember that Hitler's dirty work can also be done by apparent pro-British Americans who will urge aid to Britain in such extravagant terms as will cause a natural revulsion of feeling among level-headed Americans.

I hope I am wrong.

Hitler is plainly fomenting unrest in Japan. Japan's appetite is large. But it would take some outside prompting to persuade this consumptive and bankrupt nation, dominated by greedy patricians as also her greatest industrialists, to completely destroy their export markets in the attempt to swallow Singapore, the Dutch East Indies, French Indo-China, the Chinese Republic, the Philippines and Australia.

Indeed, the very diversity of Japan's conquistadorial interests is suspicious.

A week ago she was making veiled threats about the Dutch East Indies. A few days ago, she was shaking a mailed fist at Singapore. Last week-end Australia seemed to be the object of her animosity.

And now her foreign minister says, "Japan is concerned regarding the Philippines as Japan's friendly neighbor and therefore desires that they will not endanger Japan in the future."

This is a direct threat to the United States. Indirectly, it is a German effort to frighten the United States into a panic in which she will keep all her munitions output for her own use.

I say that Japan's actions may constitute the crux of the war situation. Whether or not she actually gets into the war at this time will make a good deal of difference to Britain.

President Roosevelt has stated, categorically, that Japanese hostilities against the United States would make no difference to American help to Britain. According to Mr. Roosevelt's program, they would make no difference.

But the American Congress would not be so tractable about this assistance if American public opinion got nervous over a Japanese attack. It would be a herculean job to pry appropriations from the House of Representatives bedevilled by panicky constituents.

Whether or not Japan will go to war until the United States is actively engaged with Germany is another matter.

That will depend largely upon how she is handled by German agents. If she is flattered enough, she will fight soon.

Just at the moment she does not appear to be inclined to do any more than play the part of a rather foolish bogeyman.

That two-thousand-mile flight by the Royal Air Force to German-occupied Poland and back, which occurred over this past week-end, was said to be undertaken for the purpose of dropping pamphlets in these areas.

There is a twofold significance here:

First, the dropping of these pamphlets, obviously designed to arouse Polish resistance to the Germans, indicates British knowledge that disorders are imminent or that disorder occurred in German-held Polish territory.

Secondly, a flight of this magnitude is a striking commentary upon the increased facilities and mobility of the R.A.F.

Two months ago, perhaps even a month ago, British planes would not have ventured upon such an exploit.

Today it is accomplished without even a threat of disaster.

The fact that the R.A.F. is much more effective than it was or the German Luftwaffe is much less effective than it was. In either case, the ratio of efficiency between the two air forces has been definitely changed to our advantage.

Remember that, all other factors being maintained at the status quo, it is air mastery that will win this war.

The pamphlet raid into Poland is one of those exploits that show where the mastery is beginning to lie.

Admiral Rowland Nugent, retired and living at Duncan, B.C., has been offering some reminiscences that turn much illumination on Italian fighting qualities in the last war.

Admiral Nugent, it seems, was stationed at an Italian port during the 1914-1918 struggle.

One day a German submarine appeared off the port and a fleet of British motorboat subchasers went out to look for it. There were two new Italian destroyers in the harbor and Admiral Nugent ordered them to join the chase.

The Italian commanders said they could not move without instructions from their senior officer. That officer was not available because he was at home and "resting."

Admiral Nugent forced his way into the Italian officer's presence and ordered him to get the destroyers out.

The Italian protested that the destroyers had no steam up.

After considerable argument, he was persuaded to issue the necessary commands.

So diligently did the Italians stall and kill time, that it was two hours before the two destroyers moved out of the harbor.

They returned two hours later.

Their gallant commanders had given up the search for the German submarine and dragged their tails homeward because, as they said, "it was too rough outside."

Coal vs. Wheat

Editor, Bulletin: Re the necessity of replacing wheat by coal, one must realize that wheat has seen its best day and the future markets will be drastically curtailed, on account of intensified production in Europe. We may be fortunate if we export three hundred million bushels in the year following the war. After that we can expect very little export trade from Canada on account of the following reasons:

First, Europe will have to continue producing at maximum from financial necessity.

Second, the Axis bloc may for obvious policy purchase South American wheat entirely.

We Canadians have reached the time where we have become a liability to the Dominion from excessive production. Previous to 1939 wheat was an asset, today we find it a liability. As a grower of wheat I realize we cannot expect the taxpayers to indefinitely finance a proposition which is hopeless.

The railways will suffer next to the farmers and have to appeal to the government for help because of loss in wheat transportation.

There is a solution to this which will benefit Canada. That is to haul coal back east in place of wheat. There is no money in empty box cars. We have the coal, they have the markets.

We are at a great disadvantage re exchange on coal imports plus approximately 50 million dollars of business which we Canadians can produce if given a square deal.

Only Two Vowels?

New York Sun

A woman has been sentenced to jail on a charge of swindling department stores, and in their report postal inspectors accused her of using 44 different spelling of one name. As the name was Skwirut, this case appears to reveal an interesting talent for word games and such pastimes.

Readers who have perused several thousand detective stories or murder mysteries are familiar with the principle in criminology that persons who false-name themselves forget far from their own. A fugitive from justice named Alexander, for example, will register at rooming houses as Sanders or Alfreds or some similar combination of letters that, in at least a slight degree, resembles his true name.

But think of the sheer waste of talent in a person who would try to spell Skwirut! Did the woman devise them all at once, or invent a new form for each new operation? Psychologists would be interested. Perhaps if she had used only three or four names she might have escaped detection.

Rolling Out The Barrel

By Helen Kirkpatrick in the Chicago News

One old bicycle and a sewing machine have proved exceedingly valuable weapons in helping to discover if you explored certain sectors of North Africa.

It seems it happened this way: There was a lonely outpost on the frontier of one of the Italian colonies. It may be far behind the lines today, and the sewing machine may have had something to do with this fact. It was an ordinary, dreary, desert outpost among the scrubs, with miles of Italian desert stretching before it. The outpost only received from the outside world was the regular transport plane, which brought mail and supplies.

As the plane never seemed to get mixed up in any of these air battles, the British staff began to think it worth while to use any nice new modern plane for this service. It was probably an old-type Valencia transport.

One evening when the plane had arrived on one of its regular visits, the pilot was sitting around the mess with the officers, and the scene was pretty bored. To brighten up the evening, between rounds of drinks, the officers had the idea to clean up what an infernal nuisance the Italian fort just across the border was.

The Middle Eastern commander in chief, Sir Archibald Wavell, had not yet given word to clean up Italian Africa, and so the fort sat there, interrupting the life of the outpost by occasional artillery fire. Life would be more pleasant, the officers seemed to think, if the fort were knocked on a bit.

The pilot got to thinking about it, and finally suggested giving the Italians a little bombing. "Mum's the word," everyone agreed, and set to work.

As the plane was not a bomber and never had pretended to be, the major obstacle was to find a bomb. That is where the sewing machine and the bicycle came in. A big oil drum was filled with powder, the bicycle chain, the sewing machine wheel and any other odd bits the boys could pry off. An ordinary fuse, used for dynamiting machine wheel and any other odd bits the boys could pry off. An ordinary fuse, used for dynamiting mines in mess of the Italians, the boys said.

Total British casualties was a shot in one officer's foot from an Italian rifle. The outpost's doctor, who was in on the secret, put in a report saying the officer had been confined to the hospital for a cut he had gotten while swimming.

So the story might never have leaked out if the Italians had not issued a communique the next day saying that their fort had been subjected to a fierce bombing attack, causing some 20 casualties.

"We're over. Roll out the barrel." Opening the door of the plane, they rolled the barrel out. It fell with a thud, right in the centre of the fort. About 30 Italians ran out to see what had arrived. The barrel rolled gently up against the wall and burst off with a terrific bang, a bit of sewing machine and bicycle flying through the air. It made a fine mess of the Italians, the boys said.

Experiments In Eating

A Letter to the Edinburgh Scotsman

Sir: The letter in the Scotsman recommending "mad commonsense" minds me of some experiments I made in that kind of thing during the last war—from winter to winter 1917-18 to be precise. I tried cormorant and, like your correspondent, I found it quite good. I remember also being recommended by a friend to me duck, with a tincture of beef. I tried, however, other wild birds besides cormorant with success and added to the country's food supply. In considering any birds in this connection, I should imagine that if you shoot them those habits are hostile to man's interests, or which are more numerous than is desirable.

A bird which, to my mind, falls well within both these classes is the herring gull. This rapacious bird is far too plentiful, and does much harm to more likeable species, not only by destroying their eggs and young, but also by "muscling in" and devouring a too great share of the available food. The herring gull makes excellent eating, very much resembling wild duck. Its chief fault is that, by its very number, intimately familiar to everybody, it is rather too much with us. Personally, I find it rather tiresome to eat, and I realize we cannot expect the taxpayers to indefinitely finance a proposition which is hopeless.

The railways will suffer next to the farmers and have to appeal to the government for help because of loss in wheat transportation.

There is a solution to this which will benefit Canada. That is to haul coal back east in place of wheat. There is no money in empty box cars. We have the coal, they have the markets.

We are at a great disadvantage re exchange on coal imports plus approximately 50 million dollars of business which we Canadians can produce if given a square deal.

Only Two Vowels?

New York Sun

A woman has been sentenced to jail on a charge of swindling department stores, and in their report postal inspectors accused her of using 44 different spelling of one name. As the name was Skwirut, this case appears to reveal an interesting talent for word games and such pastimes.

Readers who have perused several thousand detective stories or murder mysteries are familiar with the principle in criminology that persons who false-name themselves forget far from their own. A fugitive from justice named Alexander, for example, will register at rooming houses as Sanders or Alfreds or some similar combination of letters that, in at least a slight degree, resembles his true name.

But think of the sheer waste of talent in a person who would try to spell Skwirut! Did the woman devise them all at once, or invent a new form for each new operation? Psychologists would be interested. Perhaps if she had used only three or four names she might have escaped detection.

Rolling Out The Barrel

By Helen Kirkpatrick in the Chicago News

One old bicycle and a sewing machine have proved exceedingly valuable weapons in helping to discover if you explored certain sectors of North Africa.

It seems it happened this way: There was a lonely outpost on the frontier of one of the Italian colonies. It may be far behind the lines today, and the sewing machine may have had something to do with this fact. It was an ordinary, dreary, desert outpost among the scrubs, with miles of Italian desert stretching before it. The outpost only received from the outside world was the regular transport plane, which brought mail and supplies.

As the plane never seemed to get mixed up in any of these air battles, the British staff began to think it worth while to use any nice new modern plane for this service. It was probably an old-type Valencia transport.

One evening when the plane had arrived on one of its regular visits, the pilot was sitting around the mess with the officers, and the scene was pretty bored. To brighten up the evening, between rounds of drinks, the officers had the idea to clean up what an infernal nuisance the Italian fort just across the border was.

The Middle Eastern commander in chief, Sir Archibald Wavell, had not yet given word to clean up Italian Africa, and so the fort sat there, interrupting the life of the outpost by occasional artillery fire. Life would be more pleasant, the officers seemed to think, if the fort were knocked on a bit.

The pilot got to thinking about it, and finally suggested giving the Italians a little bombing. "Mum's the word," everyone agreed, and set to work.

As the plane was not a bomber and never had pretended to be, the major obstacle was to find a bomb. That is where the sewing machine and the bicycle came in. A big oil drum was filled with powder, the bicycle chain, the sewing machine wheel and any other odd bits the boys could pry off. An ordinary fuse, used for dynamiting mines in mess of the Italians, the boys said.

Total British casualties was a shot in one officer's foot from an Italian rifle. The outpost's doctor, who was in on the secret, put in a report saying the officer had been confined to the hospital for a cut he had gotten while swimming.

So the story might never have leaked out if the Italians had not issued a communique the next day saying that their fort had been subjected to a fierce bombing attack, causing some 20 casualties.

"We're over. Roll out the barrel." Opening the door of the plane, they rolled the barrel out. It fell with a thud, right in the centre of the fort. About 30 Italians ran out to see what had arrived. The barrel rolled gently up against the wall and burst off with a terrific bang, a bit of sewing machine and bicycle flying through the air. It made a fine mess of the Italians, the boys said.

Hitler's Lost War

III

Col. Lindbergh's conviction that Hitler is going to win the war is apparently shared by a number of people, whose views indicate that wishful thinking is not all on one side in this struggle.

But that is one person who does not share their confidence. His name is Adolf Hitler.

Are not the negotiations between Hitler and Vichy interesting? Why is Hitler negotiating? He did not negotiate with Dr. Schuschnigg, the Chancellor of Austria, nor with Dr. Benes, the President of Czecho-Slovakia, nor with the President of Poland, when all three of these countries had armies and institutions intact. He attacked, destroyed and has not negotiated since.

Seven months have passed since Hitler defeated France in the worst military disaster in modern history. Two-thirds of the country is occupied, and it all could be. Two million French prisoners are in Hitler's hands. The country is weaponless and at home. Why then does Hitler attempt to make another Munich in Vichy after a defeat? If he wants the Mediterranean ports why does he not take them? Could any one stop him?

Is there not something comic in the spectacle of Hitler tossing Laval to Petain, and Petain tossing him back to Hitler, and Hitler tossing him back to Petain as though Laval were the flamingo who served as the croquet ball in "Alice in Wonderland"?

Why does Hitler carry on like this?

In his last speech Hitler said that in the last year he had made 724 mistakes and the British 1,824,000. The number of mistakes on either side, however, is not what is important. The political and strategical results of the mistakes is what is important. Britain underestimated the military strength and innermorale of Germany. Britain overestimated the military strength of France. But Hitler completely misestimated Britain, but completely! And he overestimated the military strength of France. And these two mistakes have cost Hitler his war.

In April last year I had a talk with an important neutral European statesman. The talk was confidential, and only the fact that this gentleman has since died releases me from the confidence. He told me that he had had a talk with Hitler only a few days before the attack on Poland. Hitler had assured him that the British were bluffing. He confided in him that the Allied intelligence service had interrupted the reports of Sir William Strang, who visited the Polish and British governments and staffs, from which he had learned that in Ironside's opinion the Poles could only hold out for a matter of weeks. Arguing from this, Hitler concluded, first, that the Poles would not offer effective resistance, and, second, that the British, once Poland fell, would withdraw from the war.

In the course of the conversation, Hitler said, "I do not want war with Britain. To avoid it is the very basis of my policy. Even if I can succeed in the world catastrophe. Germany is in no position to take over the role of Britain and France in the United States. It would mean chaos, in which Germany would suffer as well as everybody else. My representatives all assure me that Britain will not really fight."

When Col. Lindbergh, in the recent coast-examination before the Senate Foreign Affairs committee, said, "After all, it was France and Britain who declared war," he made a most misleading statement. France and Britain were urging Hitler to settle his affairs by negotiation with Poland—with whom he had a non-aggression pact that he himself had signed. They said specifically to Hitler and publicly to the world that a suspension of negotiations and armed aggression would automatically produce war with both of them.

Having once tried to save peace by giving in to Hitler, over Czechoslovakia, they now tried to save it by resisting him and making the consequences perfectly clear.

Why did not believe them and opened war by a lightning attack from all frontiers on Poland. For two days afterward the Chamberlain government hesitated, and there were scenes in the House of Commons and Englishmen cried, "Speak for England! We have given our word of honor!"

Chamberlain did not declare war. He took account of the fact that the state of war had been created by Hitler's aggression.

Why does Col. Lindbergh attempt to mislead America by inferring that France and Britain were guilty?

Why did Hitler not turn from the short successful war on Poland, directly against France and Britain? Why could he wait from fall until spring?

He still wanted to separate France and Britain.

Why, having knocked France down in the space of a few weeks, with a battle conclusive as anything without demanding the surrender of the fleet or the capitulation of the British Army?

Because he thought Britain would withdraw.

Why did he not push right through and attack England at that moment, when the British Isles were completely undefended, and the army, escaped from Dunkirk, still disorganized for home defense?

Because he does not want Britain as an enemy. He wants Britain as an ally. That has been the basis of his whole miscalculated policy!

Ludendorff would not have waged such a war. And Hitler, were he perfectly sure of himself would not have waged such a war. For Hitler has said, "The slightest sign of vacillation is suicidal."

The Gospel According To St. Mark

And straightway he called them: and they left their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired servants, and went after him.

And they went into Capernaum; and straightway on the sabbath day he entered into the synagogue, and taught.

And they were astonished at his doctrine: for he taught them as one that had authority, and not as the scribes.

And there was in their synagogue a man with an unclean spirit; and he cried out, Saying, Let us alone; what have we to do with thee, thou Jesus of Nazareth? art thou come to destroy us? I know thee who thou art, the Holy One of God.

And Jesus rebuked him, saying, Hold thy peace, and come out of him.

And when the unclean spirit had torn him, and cried with a loud voice, he came out of him.

And they were all amazed, insomuch that they questioned among themselves, saying, What thing is this? what new doctrine is this? for with authority commandeth he even the unclean spirits, and they do obey him.

Red Deer Holds Hockey Tourney

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

RED DEER, Feb. 18.—Saturday was a big day for the hockey fans of the Red Deer district with the holding here of the second annual district hockey tournament, under the auspices of the Red Deer Board of Trade.

Burnt Lake won the championship by defeating Shady Nook 4-1 in the final game played in the evening.

In the final, the winners scored once in the first period and twice in the second. Burnt Lake, however, tallied the first goal of the season, while Shady Nook came through with one late in the game. It was the third game of the day for both teams.

At the conclusion of the game Paul Redman, secretary of the Board of Trade, and manager of the tournament, presented the board's trophy to the winning team and thanked the teams for their co-operation.

It was the second tournament the board has staged and the hockey this year showed improvement over last year. Everything moved smoothly throughout the day. J. M. McAnaley was chief timekeeper and the referees were Eldon Martin and Scotty Morrison.

Shady Nook handed Penhold a 7-0 trimming in the first game of the tournament which started in the morning. Palm Bay, last year's champions, and Edwell met in the second game in this round and put on a real show, which went into overtime before Palm Bay was beaten 8-6. Hilldown scored a 3-1 win over Rocky Creek and Burnt Lake shut out Valley Centre 7-0 in the other first round games.

In the second draw, Shady Nook and Edwell played a close battle which Shady Nook won 3-2. The score was tied at the end of the first ianto and again at the end of the second. The victors got the winning goal in the third and stayed ahead. Burnt Lake eliminated Hilldown 6-2 in the other semi-final.

SICKNESS MAY CAUSE CHANGE CANADA ENVOY

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Immediate provision for "additional or other representation" at Washington will be necessitated by the continued illness of Loring Christie, Canadian minister to the United States, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons Monday.

The Prime Minister said "an announcement with respect thereto" will be made in the course of a few days. He paid high tribute to Mr. Christie whose health broke down last year under the burden of heavy responsibilities in the United States capital.

Mr. King said he could assure the house that "Canada's interests at Washington have not been allowed to suffer in consequence of Mr. Christie's illness." Affairs of the legation had been carried on by Merchant Mahoney, counsellor of the legation who has been there since its establishment.

Mr. King said that when the necessary appropriations for establishment of the proposed new legations in Brazil and the Argentine had been passed by the house he hoped to be in a position to name the Canadian representatives who will be sent there.

He said there were other Latin-American Republics anxious to exchange ministers with Canada and the government was giving "the most friendly consideration" to the general question.

COUNTRY WILL NEED 300,000 MORE WORKERS

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—For the armed forces, war industries, and for transport, lumbering, mining and other occupations, Canada will require an estimated additional 300,000 men and women in this year, Prime Minister Mackenzie King told the House of Commons Monday.

(In a broadcast address two weeks ago the prime minister said an additional 200,000 men and women would be needed for the armed forces and war industries.)

During his review of the war and international affairs Mr. King referred to the 100,000 who would be required in such industries as transport, lumbering, mining, etc.

This would mean the necessity of mobilizing a large number of skilled and semi-skilled workers, he said.

"Accordingly the federal government, in co-operation with the provincial governments, is establishing vocational and plant training schools capable of training 100,000 persons a year," he added.

Ban Lifted

OTTAWA, Feb. 18—(CP)—The import on all used motor vehicles has been lifted as regards used motor buses to avert a possible shortage and to save foreign exchange, it was disclosed Monday in an order-in-council tabled in the house of commons.

FALSE REPORTS DENOUNCED BY VATICAN PAPER

By REYNOLDS PACKARD

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 18—(UP)—The official Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, denounced as "false" and "murderous" reports which seek to represent Pope Pius as anti-democratic or favorable to the establishment of a "new order" in Europe.

The Vatican organ did not disclose the source of the false reports against which its attack was directed.

(Osservatore Romano's comment appeared to be carefully worded. The rumor which drew its fire was a report which tended to indicate papal sympathy with the Axis cause.)

"The pope, once in speaking to a general audience, said: 'The untruthful press is no less murderous than armored cars and bombing planes'," said the Vatican newspaper. "The days following this sample have justified the pope's denunciation."

The rumors which Osservatore Romano denounced were these:

1—Reports that Pope Pius had said Europe must adjust itself to a new order.

2—Reports that the holy see had long been opposed to the democratic form of government.

3—Reports that the situation of Catholics in Germany had been improved.

4—Reports that papal representatives had encouraged "troops of every nation which went over to the flag of another belligerent nation."

5—Reports that the pope favored Fascism much as the pope favored treaty with Germany "to avoid complete ruin."

WHEAT BOARD HAS DEFICIT ON 1939 CROP

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Deficit of the Canadian wheat board on 1939 crop account, western division, was $6,119,656, the annual report available here Monday showed.

Deficit from operations on marketing the 1938 wheat delivered to the board by producers was placed at $81,282,329.

Wheat of the 1939 crop acquired by the board totalled 362,767,304 bushels, valued at $261,868,199, said the report for the year ending July 31, 1940.

Net proceeds from sales of this western wheat were $156,456,962. Stocks on hand at July 31 were 133,317,733 bushels valued at $81,564,000.

Surplus on cash wheat transactions during the year was $1,816,000.

Carrying charges on grain held by the board amounted to $18,-278,114. Additional freight charges which had to be borne on shipments to head of the lakes from points tributary to Vancouver totalled $2,045,272.

Total of all board expenses was $22,312,419, or $6,119,656 over the surplus on wheat transactions.

Eastern division account for 1939 showed a surplus on operations of $80,729, with surplus on wheat sales $284,053.

Marketing operations on the 1939 crop were completed on July 31, 1940, when remaining stocks of wheat, 3,460,142 bushels of cash wheat less 3,473,000 bushels of short futures contracts were transferred to the 1939 crop account.

TOURIST GRANT WILL STAND AT HALF MILLION

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Grant to the Canadian travel bureau to assist in promoting tourist business in Canada will remain unchanged in 1941-42 if a government recommendation is accepted.

Transport department estimates Monday provided that the $500,000 grant made in 1940-41 be continued.

Mines and resources estimates made provision for increased outlay on the Jasper park area, major tourist attraction—in the coming year, although grants for development of tourist highways will be sharply curtailed.

Improvements to the main tourist routes from the international boundary to Banff, Yoho, Kootenay and Jasper Parks had an appropriation of $150,000 in the current year. This sum will be cut to $11,000 for improvements in 1941-42.

Total estimates outlay on development of tourist highways show a reduction of $746,533 for the coming year, from $770,533.

Looking them Over

By JACK KELLY

MIGHTY few girls haven't envied Sonja Henie the fame and fortune her skating has brought her, but few of them have any idea of the work required to become a world champion in this sport—or is it art?

Take Megan Taylor as an example. This tall, shapely 20-year-old English brunette who will skate here as the headline attraction in the annual Glenora ice show Feb. 27, 28 and March 1, is now considered by a number of competent experts to be a better skater than Sonja.

Megan just arrived last week in San Francisco after an 18 months' tour of Australia where she did her stuff with the aid of small, portable artificial ice plant. One of the first things she did was write officials of the Glenora club here and assure them that she was looking forward to getting back to western Canada and the "wide open spaces provided by the big arena."

She went on, however, and gave an idea of the sort of training she goes through.

"Before the big championships, I used to skate eight hours a day and do another hour of ballet and gym work for 10 months. I still go through the ballet and gym routines daily. Skating alone is not enough exercise. The amateur championships were a dreadful strain for you have to put everything you know into four minutes of skating and that makes you terrifically tense. Now that I am a professional, I have ten minutes or so and I can enjoy myself and relax with a bit of free skating," Megan explains.

I'm thinking that a flock of rugged hockey players in these parts will be a bit dumbfounded when they read of Megan doing eight hours on skates and another hour of gym work daily. Two hours of practice daily is considered a full training schedule for puckers.

While Megan is English, her father spent his boyhood in Saskatoon and learned to skate there. In the first Great War he went overseas with the 53rd Battalion, Winnipeg Infantry, and was wounded in both legs at Vimy Ridge. After the war he returned to Saskatoon for a few years and took up skating again despite his wounds. He has specialized in trick stuff, barrel jumping, skating on stilts, etc., and will perform here with his daughter.

Phil started Megan skating just as soon as he could get skates to fit her. By the time she was 11, she competed in 1932 winter Olympics at Lake Placid and placed seventh. Two years later she was runner-up to Sonja Henie for the world's amateur championship. She did most of her skating in England, but each winter season she went to St. Moritz.

What Packs 'Em In?

WITH the National Hockey League just announcing a 10 per cent increase in attendance to date for the circuit as compared with last year, you wouldn't think that the moguls would be worrying about what packs customers in, but from time to time an item pops out that indicates such is not a fact.

In New York, Boston and Detroit the so-called amateur as reported to be out-drawing the N.H.L. clubs, sometimes as much as two to one. Prices have something to do with it all right, but not all. The amateurs scale their prices from 36 cents to $1.10 while the N.H.L. asks from 85 cents to $3.30.

Recently Dan McLaughlin, a New York sport writer, went probing into this business and the data he gathered indicated that the fans preferred the "amateurs" because they played wide-open hockey and got into frequent fist fights.

The conclusions are interesting because they give you an idea of how far the U.S. fan has developed in his appreciation of hockey. Preference for the wide-open style to the score-a-goal-and-protect-it brand of the N.H.L. shows that the American public is beginning to get an idea of what hockey is all about. On the other hand, the yen to see fist fights indicates that the customers still don't appreciate the finer points of the game and still look on it as something akin to the battles royal that the old Roman emperors used to stage in their arenas when they wanted to make the public forget a new tax proclamation.

Rossdale Trims Highlands 1-0 To Enter Midget Finals

Rossdale entered the Community League midget final by virtue of a 1-0 decision over Highlands at Scona Centre rink on Monday night. Two previous games had both ended in 2-2 draws, a third being ordered by the committee on neutral ice.

The first in the final series will be played tonight at Ritchie, with the return game at Rossdale on Thursday. Ritchie gained a final bracket by eliminating Calder.

Last night's encounter was a nip and tuck affair right from the start and L. Bradner's goal scored in the first period from a pass by Ray Lower turned out to be the million dollar variety.

Highlands played their strongest game in the last period when they kept up almost a continuous pressure, but the Rossdale defence managed to hold. Goalie Gordon Timbres turned aside at least a half dozen hard shots which looked like certain counters.

Kindres also did well in the Highlands nets particularly in the first two periods when he had plenty to do. Don McNicoll and Hank Heron got in some dangerous looking rushes particularly in the third period, but the whole team played well and held their own with the fast Rossdale midgets.

LINEUPS

Highlands: Kindres, Heron, Dunaworth, Hay, Smith, Sinclair, Hope, McNicoll, Huculiak, Warwick.

Rossdale: G. Timbres, W. Ingram, Heaney, Lane, D. Brander, G. Bradner, J. Hinchberger, Graff, Hill, Worsfold, L. Bradner.

Officials: Joe McCallum and Ken Bailey.

E. McDonald with four goals was top scorer for the Hustlers. Meldrum had two and Guthrie, Chapman and Bouvelle one each.

J. Bouwmeester bagged a pair for the losers and McCaskill Lappin and J. McDonald added the others.

TRAIL SMOKIES BEAT KIMBERLEY

KIMBERLEY, B.C., Feb. 18.—(CP)—The Trail Smoke Eaters handed the second-place Kimberley their second defeat in as many games Monday night, beating the Dynamiters 6-2 and taking a firmer grip on the lead of the West Kootenay Hockey League. Trail blasted the Dynamiters 9-6 here Saturday night.

The game went Kimberley's way until the final period when Bob Marshall led a devastating Trail attack that produced five consecutive goals. Marshall scored three for the Smokies, with Bob Cronie, Bunny Dame and Mike Buckna getting the others.

Annual Glenora Ice Show Shaping Up For Sell-Out

FINAL details, hundreds of them, are now being completed for the opening of the annual Glenora ice extravaganza at the Arena here for a three-day run, February 27, 28 and March 1, and everything points to the show again being sold out every night.

With Megan Taylor, the world's amateur fancy skating champion, coming as the headline attraction and Glenora's own array of brilliant talent almost ready for the opening fanfare, the show promises to equal and probably surpass all its sensational predecessors.

The theme will be "Ice Fantasy", wide enough in scope to permit a much greater range of skating numbers than the pantomime themes of previous years. The program will run the gamut of skating from comedy to classic figures in a blaze of brilliant costumes, colorful settings and striking lighting effects.

From 100 to stars, the performers will flash a complete new set of costumes. These are now nearly completed in city workshops and are the richest and most striking that have yet been designed for this big show that thousands eagerly look forward to each year.

Glenora officials report that the ticket sale is running neck and neck with what it was last year at this time—and that means that you'd better get your duicals without any further delay if you want to be sure of choice seats.

Megan Taylor's skating alone should be full value for the price of tickets. For several years she and Sjona Henie were nip and tuck for the world's championship, but experts who have seen them both during the last month figure that Megan is now definitely the better skater. Megan's world championship is the amateur title which she won in Stockholm in 1938. Owing to the war there have been no international title meets since and she accordingly retains this honor although she is now a professional.

Junior Playoff Starts Wednesday

Edmonton Athletic Club and Maple Leafs open their playoff series at the Arena on Wednesday night at 8:30 o'clock.

The Leafs finished the Junior League season with a margin of four points over their rivals taking five out of the eight games played against the E.A.C.

Both teams will be at full strength and the series has all the ear-marks of being a bang-up affair.

"Yes" and "no" are adverbs.

COMETS TO PLAY STARLETS FRIDAY AT VARSITY GYM

Those sport fans who have been doing some little bit of worrying over the fact that their favorite Commercial Grads have retired will get an opportunity to see Edmonton's new bid for the championship honors on Friday evening of this week.

The Comets coached by "Bill" Douglas will tangle with the Starlets in a preliminary game at the University starting at 7:30 p.m.

The Comets have been practising faithfully during the last three months and have developed a squad which it is felt will carry Edmonton's name far down the trail of championships.

Although only two of the former Grads are continuing Coach "Bill" Douglas has nearly every member of last years Gradettes. This was the club who played such fine ball in the dominion play-downs and finally lost out to the Vancouver Westerns.

Those from whom the starting lineup will be selected are: Winnie Gallen, Kay MacRitchie, Frances Gordon, Peggy Colville, Laura Strachan, Beryl Westbrook, Lois Hepner, Hilda Hughes, Vicki Ewasiuk, Pat Cavanagh, and Lavina Allard.

This contest will be a handicap affair with the Comets giving up thirty points to their younger sisters, the Starlets. The preliminary will start promptly at 7:30 p.m. and will be followed by the intercollegiate contest between Alberta and Saskatchewan.

BOSTON CENTRE STRETCHES LEAD OVER SYL APPS

MONTREAL, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Boston's great centre, Bill Cowley, put together five scoring points during the last week, to increase his margin at the top of the National Hockey League scoring race. He has 48 points and is nine points ahead of Toronto's Syl Apps. Bryan Hextall of Rangers retained his spot.

Two goals against Rangers Sunday night brought Sweeney Schriner's total to 20, a three goal margin over Apps.

Shore Banks On Robbie For Goaling In Playoffs

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 18.—(CP)—Earl Robertson isn't a fellow to sulk at being demoted. He's just plugging along hoping that soon he will again be back in the big time.

Three weeks ago "Robbie," who started off many a defeat for New York Americans, was told by Manager Red Dutton he was being shipped to the minors with Johnny Sorrell, a veteran of 15 years in the National Hockey League, and Fred Hunt, a rookie. The trio were sent to Springfield of the American Hockey League.

It was a bitter pill to swallow for one with 12 years' service in pro hockey for Robbie, perhaps more than any other member of the team, had been responsible for the Americans making the N.H.L. playoffs the last three years. But he "took it" without protest and was in the nets two days later when the Americans practised at River Vale, N.J.

In Springfield, a new hockey town to him, Robbie is getting acquainted with the surroundings, and already he has started a following among the town's hockey fans.

SHORE BANKS ON HIM

He has appeared in six games for Springfield and although his showing has not been exactly up to par, Owner Eddie Shore is banking on the veteran goal-tender for the A.H.L. playoffs late in March which the Indians are almost certain to make.

Robertson made his debut for Springfield Feb. 1 against Providence who beat him 8-1. The next night in Buffalo, the Bisons broke a 3-3 tie in the overtime period by scoring five times to win the game 8-3.

Shore then decided to give Robertson a few days' rest, calling in Alfie Moore, the league's goalie, once Springfield property. Moore appeared in three games, winning two.

BREAKS EVEN

When the Indians went on a four-game road trip last week, Robbie again was in the nets. He lost to Cleveland 1-0 last Tuesday night but came right back, winning the next two games from Indianapolis and Pittsburgh 3-1 and 4-3 respectively. Sunday Bast was beaten by Buffalo 2-1 in a hard fought game.

Robertson, 30, was born in Bengough, Sask. He went to the Americans in 1937-38. This season was his worst with the A's, when with poor defence protection he let through 105 goals in 29 games.

Last January 27 Dutton decided to option Robertson, recalling young Charlie Rayner, 20-year-old rookie, from Springfield along with forwards Pete Kelly and Chuch Corrigan. So far the change hasn't done the A's much good, for they are still in last place in the league, five points behind Montreal. They may not make the Stanley Cup playoffs this year.

Springfield has 16 games left to play, eight of them on home ice where they have been beaten only five times this season.

Victory Drops Edmonton Back Into Third Position

CALGARY, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Calgary Stampeders advanced into second place three points behind the pacemaking Lethbridge Maple Leafs when they outscored the lowly Turner Valley Oilers 4-3 in an Alberta Senior Hockey League fixture at the Arena Monday night.

One of the smallest crowds of the winter, less than 1,000 fans, saw Stampeders gain a four-goal lead and Oilers stage a brilliant third period scoring splurge that left them beaten by a single counter.

Oilers protested Stampeders' 3-2 victory of last Saturday night, against the decision of the referee who imposed a minor penalty instead of a major to Tommy Dewar when he was banished for allegedly elbowing his attck. The protest is now in the hands of the Alberta Hockey Association, but regardless of the decision there is no hope of the Valley club making the playoffs as they are 11 points behind the third place Edmonton Flyers with only four remaining games.

In a fast skating game, free from body checking, Stampeders obtained a two-goal lead in the first period; made it 3-0 in the second and added another early in the third. Oilers staged a belated rally that netted them three goals in less than four minutes.

Tommy Dewar (2), Joe Shannon and Cam Burke, were the Calgary marksmen while Johnny Urzaki, Doug Calma and Pete Atkinson tallied for the Valley club.

LINEUPS

Turner Valley — Harney; Flett, Ettinger; Calma, Atkinson, Evers. Subs: McClure, Craddock, Davis, Urzaki, Martinson, McDougall.

Calgary—Rice-Jones; Dewar, Smith; Burbak; Shannon, Burke. Subs: Desmarais, Thirlwell, Jempson, McGoldrick, Spout.

Joe Louis Kayoes Gus Dorazio In Second Round Of Title Fight

Brown Bomber Shows Old Man-Wrecking Power Again

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Joe Louis successfully defended his heavyweight championship for the 14th time Monday night by knocking out Gus Dorazio of Philadelphia in one minute 30 seconds of the second round of their bout before a sellout crowd of about 15,000. Louis weighed 203½; Dorazio 193½.

A short, smashing right-hand shot, flush on the chin, dropped Dorazio on his face near his own corner for the one and only knockdown of the fight. He lay there, his nose buried in the canvas as Referee Irv Kutcher completed the count.

DIFFERENT LOUIS

It was an altogether different Joe Louis than the fellow who was wild with his punches against Al McCoy in Boston less than two months ago. And it definitely was a far different fighting man than the slow-punching boxer who could do no more damage to Red Burman's chin than a feather duster less than three weeks ago in New York.

This was the Louis who "rocks 'em and wrecks 'em." And the 15,902 fans who jammed this big Westside Arena—biggest crowd to see an indoor fight in Philadelphia —roared in agreement.

At 203½, he was bigger than for any of his 13 previous title defences, and while Gus, too, was heavier than for most of his previous fights, he still was 10 pounds lighter than Joltin'.

Gus wasn't quite sure afterward just what happened.

"Why did the referee stop it?" he asked in his dressing room, apparently in the opinion it was a technical knockout instead of the clean-cut sleep-prpducing job it actually was.

"Guess ah ain't slipped too much," he told reporters in his dressing room.

Up to that point, Gus showed he wasn't afraid even a little bit. He walked into Louis in the first round. He threw several punches to the body and a short left to the head. In the closing seconds, Joe opened Gus up and rushed him into the ropes with a two-handed attack to the body.

If Monday night was any indication, Joe's next opponent—slated to be gigantic Abe Simon of New York in Detroit March 21—had better order himself a suit of armor-plate.

With The Pin Busters

Fred Meester banged over 247 in his first game in Mercantile 10's on Monday night for high single, but Rollie Hurman turned in the best triple, scoring 215, 192 and 203 for 610. B. Wright, McLean, Cusper, E. Pepper and Meester each had two games better than 200.

In Young People's League Deduke of Fife Baptist rolled 272, 178, 252 for 703 and took both best one and three.

In the Old Timers League Mrs. McNabb of Hurricanes had 261 for single high and Mrs. Meyers of Gunners took the triple with 243, 236 and 139 for 618.

J. Lutz of Macs took 303 in his third game for best single in Monday Nite Mixed and E. Berkwith occupied the front row for high three with 773 from 237, 266 and 270.

V. Trudeau of Zellerites had the top single in Zellers Mixed with 270 and M. Courtney of the Aces was high for three with 604 from 244, 140, 220.

Best single and triple for any league for the night went to T. Gardner of Scraps in Civic Block group who picked off 337, 248 and 225 for 810.

In N.A.R.-A.G.T. Miss MacDonald of Bells rolled 532 and 250 to take both one and two game honors.

In the Lady Golfers' League Mrs. May of Pets led for both high single and triple with 150, 271 and 157 for 578.

McCulloch of the Empress had top two in Theatres with 214 and 260 and George Broadbent of Operators came through with 284 for best single.

Challedon In Training Race

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—(AP)—To determine his fitness for the big $100,000 classic March 1, ailing Challedon will lead a small field postward today in the first training race ever staged at Santa Anita.

W. L. Brann's fleet pride of Maryland suffered a hoof injury several weeks ago.

Facing Challedon will be Rough Peas, another Santa Anita handicap candidate, and Aethelwold and Teddy Kerry, a couple of fast sprinters.

No pari-mutuel betting on the event will be permitted.

Jockey Draws Fine, Suspension

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 18.—(AP)—Wendell Eads, top apprentice with 32 winners, Monday was suspended for the balance of the Hialeah Park race meeting, which ends March 4, and fined $200 for careless riding and interference with John's Heir in the fourth race.

His death occurred 15 days after Jockey Earl Dow, leading apprentice rider of 1940, was killed at Agua Caliente, Mexico.

Sports . . . Roundup

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Bing Crosby is so interested in buying the Bees he recently spent two days in Boston with Charles F. Adams. If Judge Landis would turn on the green light, the Bees would be sold before the week is over.

The suck route:
Oh, Mister Gus Dorazio,
You thought that you'd lick Louis, so
Your jaw got bent and out you went,
Like all the other set-ups go.

Did you get the same chuck we did out of the list of referees who will work on Jack Kearns' first British relief fund show in Florida —Jack Dempsey, James J. Braddock, Gene Tunney and Mickey Walker? Yep.

Looks as if it's going to be a fat night for sweet charity—if this array is getting paid.

Trail Favored In Kootenay As Playoff Tension Appears

VANCOUVER, Feb. 18.—(CP)—The fighting tempo of the West Kootenay Senior Amateur Hockey League has reached its peak and is likely to explode in full force before the regular schedule is completed.

About this time every season friendliness slips out of the picture and is replaced with tension and fight. Keyed-up hockey players have but one thought in mind — to capture provincial honors and a shot at the Allan cup trophy—and they go all out in attempts to gain commanding positions for the play-offs which get under way next month.

The Trail Smoke Eaters still maintain a substantial lead and are favored to represent British Columbia in the Allan cup playdowns this year.

Kimberley Dynamiters, whose stretch drive has tabbed them as a dangerous threat to the Smoke throne, spent the majority of the season in the cellar. They came out fighting, however, and had run up a streak of eight unbeaten games before Calgary Stampeders finally put a stop to their romping during the swing through the Alberta loop.

LEAFS FADE

Nelson Maple Leafs, who provided the early opposition for the Smokies, seem to have faded and are now in third spot after dropping a series of games but they are still in the running.

Johnny Shepard, former National League player, was asked to resign as coach of the Trail club by the executive. Lack of teamwork and co-operation were named as reasons for his release.

Trail All-Stars won the West Kootenay intermediate championship when they turned back Rossland Rangers in a best-of-five series. Trail will now meet the East Kootenay champions for the B.C. title.

Trail young Smokies, shooting for their second consecutive B.C. midget championship, eliminated Nelson steps in the semi-final and will battle Kimberley in the final for the West Kootenay honors. The winner of that series will travel to Vernon where they will meet the Okanagan representatives for the championship.

The newly-formed New Westminster Senior Amateur League has reached the finals stage. Nanaimo Clippers and Fraser Mills are battling it out for the right to represent the mainland in provincial playdowns.

New Westminster Cubs, third entry and league-leaders most of the season, were eliminated in the semis.

Cowley Near To Setting All-Time Assist Record

MONTREAL, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Take it from the man who intends to be personally responsible, a matter of a game or two will see one more all-time records written into the National Hockey League books under the name of Boston Bruins.

Pace-setter of the record-making Boston streak, Centre Bill Cowley—Whom Coach Ralph (Cooney) Weiland describes as the "last of the great stickhandlers"—is within two assists of a 10-year-old individual mark for helping on goals. He still has 11 games to pass it, but Cowley thinks "a couple of games should be enough."

"The way things are breaking for me this year, that should do it," he said after helping the Bruins extend their unbeaten streak to 21 games by beating Canadiens, 5-0, here Saturday night. "With a couple of wings like Roy Conacher and Eddie Wiseman, I don't see how I can miss."

The 28-year-old Cowley, having his best season since breaking in from Halifax Wolverines, is leading all N.H.L. point-getters with a total of 13 goals and 35 assists. He needs just two more assists to equal the record set by Joe Primeau with Toronto Maple Leafs in the 1931-32 season.

Cowley is a native of Bristol, Que.

Coach Weiland, himself holder of an all-time scoring record for his total of 73 points with Boston in the 1929-30 season, thinks Cowley is the "greatest playmaker in the game right now."

"Bill sets up the smoothest plays you could hope to see," said Weiland.

Turf Writers Say James Best

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 18.—(AP)—The New York Turf Writers Association Monday designated Ed Basil James, Seattle jockey, the outstanding United States rider in 1940.

The association's annual poll named Col. E. R. Bradley of Lexington, Ky., the outstanding breeder, Benjamin A. Jones of Parnell, Mo., leading trainer, and Herbert Bayard Swope of New York, the official contributing most to the betterment of racing.

James, performing consistently in both stakes and overnight events, rode 143 winners, 106 second place horses and 93 thirds.

LEAGUE DECLARES STETTLER WINNER

Exclusive to Edmonton Bulletin

WETASKIWIN, Feb. 18 — The Central Alberta hockey league executive at a meeting here Monday night declared Stettler to be the second finalist as a result of playoff series with Camrose. Wetaskiwin had eliminated Lacombe in two straight games.

The Imperials won their first game against the Maroons 4-0, but lost the second 4-2 on Saturday night. The two-game playoff series in each case was originally ordered by the executive to be on a total goal basis, but Wetaskiwin and Lacombe mutually agreed to a two-in-three series prior to their first game.

Stettler will now meet Welaskiwin in the finals.

GERMAN BARGES ASSEMBLED FOR BULGARIA DRIVE

By FREDERICK KUH

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(BUP)—Germany is assembling hundreds of barges in the Danube to build pontoon bridges across which troops could march into Bulgaria, it was reported today, and has established an important submarine base on the Rumanian coast above Constanza.

Military informants said German troop infiltration into Bulgaria had reached such a stage that five German divisions, or upwards of 75,000 men, could be massed on the Greek frontier within 10 days.

According to Balkan reports Germany has established a submarine base in the region of lakes Razelm and Sinoe on the Black sea coast of Rumania, and channels have been dug to insure free access to the sea.

It was reported also that Germany had transported a number of "pocket" submarines, of about 150 tons, to Braila, a big Rumanian river port on the Danube.

1,502 CIVILIANS KILLED IN RAIDS DURING JANUARY

LONDON, Feb. 18—(CP)—The ministry of home security announced today 1,502 civilians were killed and 2,012 injured by air raids in Great Britain during January.

The civilian toll of the war since June 18, 1940 (when the battle of Britain began), was announced last Jan. 20 as 23,081 dead and 32,296 injured.

Of those killed in January 720 were men, 567 women and 189 children under 16, the announcement said. The injured included 1,171 men, 672 women and 158 children under 16. Twenty-six of those listed as killed were unclassified.

This compared with a December toll of civilian casualties totalling 3,793 killed and 5,044 injured.

A ministry of health psychologist reported during December only 25 persons applied for admission to London's two special centres for treatment of bombing neurosis, while outside London three sought treatment.

Sir Wilson Jameson, chief medical officer of the ministry of health, discussing the psychologist's report, said "It is truly amazing how the people are standing up to it."

Today's War Moves

Cairo from the west and Hitler was credited with preparing to drive through Turkey as a complementary move.

The Germans and the Italians waited too long, however. They allowed the British to strengthen their north African forces sufficiently to overwhelm Marshal Graziani, while the Germans were held back by the winter weather and the confusions in Rumania.

Had the Germans got possession of eastern Greece last year, when an attack on Turkey might have been fruitful, they could have struck at Turkey simultaneously from the west and north. The outer Turkish defenses, called the Chakmak line, runs northward from the Aegean mouth of the Maritza river, near the Greek frontier. Then it turns eastward near the Bulgarian frontier, passing through Kirk Kilisse and continues to the Black sea. The Chakmak line might have crumbled in a short time under simultaneous blows from German forces in Greece and Bulgaria.

SITUATION HAS CHANGED

However, there now is no major military reason why the Fuehrer should hazard a Turkish campaign extending 1,000 miles to Suez. The Italians are no longer able to help him. Hence, the situation in Greece has changed, as far as the Turks are concerned.

If the Greeks refuse to make peace with Italy and it becomes necessary for the Germans to move through Bulgaria and attack the Greek eastern front, the operation will be essentially defensive. Its purpose will be to defend Mussolini and the Fascists against a drive in Italy to get out of the war.

Apart from the moral effect of a possible separate peace being forced upon Italy by Great Britain, Hitler can ill afford from a practical standpoint to let Italy go. Italy's military strength is no longer of use to the fuehrer, but Mussolini's navy still has some effectiveness.

SAFEGUARD OPERATIONS

However reluctant the Italian warships are to offer battle, the fact of Italy's continued belligerency keeps a considerable part of the British fleet permanently assigned to the Mediterranean. The British must have preponderant sea strength there to safeguard their operations in north Africa and the freedom of the Suez Canal.

If Italy were to retire from the war, the British could remove numerous warships from the Mediterranean for further protection of their Atlantic shipping. This change in the conflict would work greatly to Germany's disadvantage and is the basic strategic reason why Hitler must do all he can to overcome the increase of peace sentiment in Italy.

Here is the primary key to understanding the present German policy in southeastern Europe. Hitler does not want to create trouble there but he must take whatever steps are necessary to keep Italy from ending the war and releasing British warships from the Mediterranean.

Whatever may happen to Greece in the near future, the Greeks already have made a great contribution to weakening the Axis. By resisting the Italians they have helped the British offensive in North Africa and have allowed the establishment of important new British air and naval bases in the Eastern Mediterranean.

These results cannot be overcome by anything the Germans may do in Southeastern Europe. The part Greece has played and possibly may continue to play for awhile, surely will be remembered and rewarded when Europe is at peace again.

Interpreting War News

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

It is true that Britain has counted heavily on Turkish resistance to any German march through Bulgaria to aid Italy in Albania. Yet the pact will not strip Britain of vitally-important strategic advantages she has gained from the Greek-Italian conflict.

For example, even if it should lead Greece to make peace with Italy, presumably on Berlin assurances of favorable terms, as it is hardly likely Britain would abandon her air and naval bases on the Greek island of Crete.

There is another implication to Sofia accounts of a non-intervention accord with Turkey. It suggests that the real Nazi purpose in the Balkans is to press a "peace offensive" against Greece and avert for Germany a two-front war at a time when she is preparing a final smash at Great Britain.

HITLER OBJECTIVE

What Hitler is trying to do, if the Sofia accounts are tak at face value, is to knock Greece out of the British-Axis war by pressure and threats, before the British-Greek allies knock Italy out by force.

It is quite likely that it would take more than Turkish pledges of aloofness to crack Greek morale and induce acceptance of made-in-Berlin "peace" proposals.

Nor can the Greeks overlook the fact that British sea power dominates the Mediterranean. If Greece goes out of the war, she can expect to feel the full pinch of the British blockade. British naval power is escorting food stocks to Greece.

There are other reasons to believe that the real stake Hitler is playing for in the Balkans is to maintain the status quo and avoid two-front war for Germany while he strikes at the British Isles.

KEAR IN BERLIN

Fear of a general Balkan flare-up to imperil vital German oil and food resources in Rumania and other Balkan countries has been obvious in Berlin.

The present Balkan crisis seems to stem out of British rather than German initiative. The British break with Rumania made the oil fields and transportation centres in that country possible targets for British bombers. Only Bulgarian, Yugoslavian and Turkish neutrality has protected them.

announced in a radio broadcast he made early this month, but did not announce any new proposals.

He gave full weight to the victories against Italian forces in Egypt and Albania, and said "the whole Italian empire in Africa is vanishing before the eyes of the world."

But, he said, Italy was the minor power to the Axis and it was Germany that must be beaten. He was confident of ultimate triumph but the main task at the moment was to hold Germany until full value of the aid from the United States became effective.

MAIN ESTIMATES

A great volume of reports, returns and answers to questions were tabled and Finance Minister Ilsley tabled the main estimates for the fiscal year starting April 1, 1941.

It was announced that the war appropriations bill would be brought in tomorrow. That measure is expected to call for an expenditure of more than $1,000,000,000. Mr. King said the budget would be presented when the war appropriations bill had been dealt with.

Opposition Leader Hanson moved adjournment of the debate on Mr. King's statement, which was concluded a few minutes before six o'clock, and the house adjourned until this afternoon.

REVIEWED PICTURE

Mr. King's statement was made on his motion to go into committee on external affairs estimates. It reviewed the whole picture of diplomatic representation as it affects Canada.

The prime minister's references to the danger of Japanese aggression were taken by observers here to have particular significance in view of his traditional hesitancy in commenting upon the actions of governments at peace with Canada and the empire.

He referred to the recent arrival of a new Japanese minister to Canada and expressed the hope that harmony could be maintained.

Recalling that Japan was an ally in the first Great War, Mr. King observed that the Japanese now had entered into a pact with Britain's enemies undertaking to come to their aid if they were attacked by another country.

"Recent statements of Japanese leaders have encouraged an atmosphere of impending crisis," he said. "They have likewise marked out a wide field for possible Japanese expansion southward.

"We shall continue to hope that the wiser counsels of the more moderate leaders in Japan will ultimately prevail.

AGGRESSIVE ACTION

"It is, however, only the part of prudence to observe that both in the statements of some of the Japanese leaders and in the movement of Japanese forces, there are indications that Japan may be led to undertake aggressive action at the moment that may best serve the common cause of the aggressor nations.

"Decision of the Japanese government to ally itself with Germany and Italy, under certain conditions, has undoubtedly greatly increased tension in the whole Pacific area.

"We have done what we could to lessen that tension and to avoid any occasion for its further development.

"We have been glad to welcome to Ottawa the new minister from Japan, Mr. Seijiro Yoshizawa, who has come to take the post ably filled during the past two years by Baron Tomii.

AVOID PROVOCATION

"In a period when national passions are aroused, a period marked by so much suspicion of motives and of aims, when it is so easy to engender misunderstanding and ill-will, we have tried to avoid any occasion for provocation or offence, we have sought to avoid propagandist activity, we have followed developments with forbearance and restraint, and have done our utmost to conserve a maximum of goodwill in a strife-torn world."

The prime minister referred to a recent inquiry into the situation on the Pacific coast where there had been "an unfortunate recrudescence of anti-Oriental and particularly anti-Japanese feeling in British Columbia."

"This campaign was characterized by wholly unsubstantiated and irresponsible charges and accusations against our fellow nations and other residents of British Columbia who are of Japanese racial origin."

He said the report of the commission appointed to investigate these charges had been considered and approved by the government and its recommendations were being put into effect.

Firefighters Are Granted Charter For Credit Union

Granting of a charter to the Edmonton Firefighters' Credit Union brings the total number of credit unions in the province to 36, according to an announcement by Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry.

Officers of the new union are president, P. Horn; directors—A. Phelan, A. Garneau, H. Varlow, A. Cockle; credit committee—J. Staton, R. Weir, G. Williamson; supervisors—G. Crockett, R. Small, and J. Lockie. J. F. Lamb is the secretary-treasurer.

A revised and consolidated balance sheet showing standings of Alberta credit unions as at December 31 last, gives total assets at $103,483.12. Outstanding loans are valued at $79,947.43.

were felled by ground fire, but the air ministry credited six raiders to night planes since Dec. 22, although raids were on a light scale. Last November, when they came in hundreds night after night, the total for the whole month was only 14.

There were clouds and no moon last night. The air ministry news service, however, gave this first person account of a battle in the dark in which a fighter pilot had to loop and turn to get into position above his slower opponent:

EAST COAST BOMBED

"I closed in for the attack and opened fire immediately . . . flashes and sparks of brilliant intensity almost blinded me. . . . But I kept on firing at the flashes. . . . The German machine crashed on land and some of the crew were taken prisoner."

Besides London, raiders bombed the east coast area last night and a home security communique acknowledged "that there was rather more damage in some places in East Anglia than was at first supposed, although it was nowhere very heavy." Daylight raiders were reported back again today over the east coast, western England and central Scotland.

Ottawa had a job for him in which he would be sufficiently effective to justify continued neglect of his private business interests in British Columbia. Speculation in Ottawa since has centred on the question whether this was a tacit ultimatum to Mr. Howe, and whether a sufficiently attractive post would be made available for Mr. MacMillan.

ADVISORY CAPACITY

As chairman of the war requirements board, he occupied an advisory capacity, with wide powers to investigate industrial and production difficulties though Mr. Howe has reputedly insisted on retaining as minister the full power to act and to carry responsibility for action.

Creation of a senior priorities post was recommended and announced by Mr. MacMillan. The rank of director-general given to Mr. Berkinshaw is senior rank in the department, next only to the minister and deputy minister.

The Berkinshaw appointment will fulfill Mr. Howe's pledge, made at his first conference after returning from overseas, that he will strengthen the production and priorities branches of the department to operate under Mr. Berkinshaw.

Recent developments have revealed an extensive enlargement of the munitions production branch of the department. There are two directors-general, W. F. Drysdale and H. J. Carmichael, the latter being appointed on Feb. 12, when E. B. Taylor was transferred to the post of executive assistant to the minister.

In addition to Drysdale and Carmichael, there is an associate director-general of munitions production in E. J. Brunning, an expert in shell production, and an assistant director-general in A. F. Gill, M.A., a chemist formerly in the codes and specifications section of the National Research Council and formerly technical assistant to Maj. Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, who was president of the National Research council before the war.

LEGISLATION, BUDGET ARE CONSIDERED

Social Credit Caucus Opens Tuesday—Independents Meet

Legislative and budgetary programs of the government for the session opening at 3 p.m. Thursday were scheduled to come up for consideration at the caucus of Social Credit members of the house, which commenced at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Alfred J. Hooke, S.C., Rocky Mountain House, chairman of the caucus, presided.

Premier William Aberhart and most of his cabinet ministers and supporters in the house, were present. The caucus will continue deliberations throughout Tuesday and Wednesday and will re-convene at intervals, during the session.

While the legislative program is not expected to be heavy, there will be an average grist of legislation according to all indications.

Every sign points to the consideration of amending legislation to that already existing in respect to debt adjustment.

DRASTIC MEASURES

In an address during the Camrose by-election campaign, Hon. Lucien Maynard, minister of municipal affairs declared in part that "we have now come to the point where more drastic measures may have to be taken in order to protect debtora in Alberta, if the decision of the supreme court of Canada that provinces have no right to prevent creditors from taking judgment on promissory notes is allowed to stand.

"Should the action now being considered by the government to deal with the judgment of the supreme court prove ineffective then we will not hesitate one moment to put into operation a moratorium and maintain it as long as is necessary to provide protection for our people."

While a moratorium may be declared, it is known the government would consider this not as a permanent solution to the debt question but as a palliative and temporary measure while a more permanent settlement could be evolved.

CAUCUS TO CONSIDER

In view of the criticism of Alberta debt legislation in various quarters, this legislation is certain to receive the most careful consideration of the caucus.

Housing legislation is another question that will be discussed.

Effect of the Dominion government action in cutting off relief grants as from March 31 next also will be dealt with. This undoubtedly will cause a revision of some phases of the estimates.

On Wednesday the Independent members will caucus. J. H. Walker Ind., Warner and house leader of the Independent group, already has arrived as has Mayor A. Davison of Calgary, chairman of the caucus.

WELCOMES MEMBERS

Premier Aberhart welcomed the members to the caucus at the opening session. New members were introduced and the agenda for the caucus was discussed, as well as rules of procedure.

Most of the members were present. Absentees included J. M. Pozil, Redwater, and James Hartley, Macleod. H. Sayers, S.C. Camrose, who will be back in his seat on March 3, was present.

NEW PARTY IS SEARCHING FOR MISSING PLANE

A new search party, organized and headed by Jack Kiehlbauch of Peers, Alta., left out Tuesday morning from Calling Lake to scour the timber country for the missing plane in which Pilot Walter Kiehlbauch of Chipman is believed to have lost his life.

Jack Kiehlbauch is a brother of the missing pilot and went north at the week-end to start a new search. Two other brothers, Eugene and Joe, are in Edmonton and are assisting at this end. The new party is composed of Indians and experienced trappers of the Calling Lake district, all well-equipped for the search.

Planes in Edmonton were grounded Tuesday by bad weather but the aerial search will be resumed by planes from No. 2 Observers' School under direction of Capt. W. R. May, O.B.E.

Speaker Here

GEORGE E. CARPENTER, Winnipeg, secretary of the prairie division, Canadian Manufacturers Association, who will be the principal speaker at the annual dinner meeting of the Edmonton branch tonight in the Macdonald hotel. Mr. Carpenter comes direct from Ottawa where, since November, 1939, he has been serving prairie manufacturers with regard to war supply and other questions.

Through The Mill

Squabbles between neighbors should be settled before they reach the courts and a determined husband with a hair brush could play a great role in this respect, the magistrate hinted Tuesday when he fined a married woman, charged with assaulting her landlady, $2 and costs, with the option of serving five days in jail.

The case came at Chapter 2 in a tenament house feud and honors are now about even. About 10 days ago the complainant in the present case pleaded guilty to assaulting the present accused and was fined $3 and costs. Threats of "I'll get you this time" and "I'll kill you this time" and wielding of brooms and a plumber's plunger, figured in the charge and counter charge.

Pleading guilty to passing a worthless cheque for $185 in a deal for a motor car, a Grande Prairie district man was sentenced to serve nine months in jail. As he has served about a month of the sentence on another worthless cheque charge, he will do about four and one-half months additional time.

Fine of $15 and costs or 21 days was the penalty imposed on a motorist who pleaded guilty to dangerous driving. A constable testified that he had to travel 60 miles an hour in a commandeered car to overhaul the accused in the northeast part of the city early Tuesday.

War Savings Honor Roll

Steadily increasing, the Gold Honor Roll has reached the 144 mark, and officials of the savings campaign here are confident that the 200 mark will be reached within the next week. THE QUESTION

It's past the middle of February and we've only had about four whole days of real winter to date. Sometimes there's a catch in these wonderfully mild winters. Spring doesn't come until about the first of May. How's the weatherman going to treat us this year? Will we have an early or late spring?

ANSWERS

ROY SMITH, Canadian Press employee: After years of intensive study of that branch of science known as meteorology I would say without hesitation that it would be an error of the first magnitude to buy your garden seeds this month. That is if you have notions of planting them soon.

MARGARET ALLEN, inveterate gardener: When I see the first pussy willow of the season I'll be able to answer that question with a high degree of accuracy.

GEOLOGIST IS IN EDMONTON AFTER SURVEY

New Hampshire Couple Spend Year Exploring In Arctic

As jaunty and bright as if they had just spent a week-end at Jasper, Mr. and Mrs. Lincoln Washburn of Hanover, New Hampshire, arrived in Edmonton Monday in a Canadian Airways plane after having spent nearly a year exploring the Arctic islands by plane, schooner and dog team.

Mr. Washburn, a graduate student of Yale university, has been doing geological explorations, working towards his Ph.D. degree. This is the third time he and his wife have been to the Arctic on this work but is the first winter they have spent there.

USE DOG TEAM

Their exploration took them as far north as Minto Inlet on the west side of Victoria Island and to Terror Bay on King William Island. They cruised between the ice floes in summer and travelled hundreds of miles by dog team in winter, camping on the ice in snow huts.

But they hadn't a word to say of hardship or discomfort—only of the "luxury" of Arctic life and praise for the kindness and friendliness of the people, white and natives, they had met and lived with.

They went in by Canadian Airways plane last March when Pilot Alf Caywood flew them to Cambridge Bay. They spent several months working and exploring that section of the country. In August Caywood returned and flew them to Minto inlet, Read Island and Coppermine.

There they boarded an Eskimo schooner and sailed east again to Cambridge bay, examining the island coast as they went. From Cambridge Bay Kingsley made an Arctic trader, took them to Terror bay on King William Island. There the winter and ice closed in.

CHRISTMAS IN NORTH

Just before Christmas they went by dog team with Joergen Klengenberg to Perry river where they spent Christmas with Angus Gavin, fur trader, and his wife. From Perry they returned to Cambridge bay and from there back to Richardson island, by short stages, with dog teams and Eskimo guides.

There they were picked up again last week by Pilot Caywood who flew them out to Yellowknife and they were brought to Edmonton by Pilot North Sawle.

"Eskimos are ideal travelling companions and there is nothing hard about travelling by dog team," Mr. Washburn said. "It never got more than about 40 below zero but it is a windy country.

"A few times when there was a wind we had to stay camped on the ice for a day or so but a snow house is quite comfortable.

APPRECIATE KINDNESS

"The thing that made our stay in the Arctic so nice was the kindness and friendliness of the people. We were strangers and quite dependent on them, but there was nothing they would not do for us. We were helped by the Mounted Police, the fur trade people and the missionaries."

Mr. Washburn's exploration and research was done in the spirit of pure science, studying the geologic history of the country. A comprehensive survey of the mainland coast had been made by the Canadian Arctic Expedition, so he worked mainly on the islands.

Travelling by dog team, they made about 15 to 50 miles a day, living on pilot bread, corn meal, caribou, seal meat and other foods common to the Arctic. "Seal meat is quite nice to eat," Mrs. Washburn said.

They were nearly always in touch with the outside by radio. The trading posts have sending and receiving sets. "Even in the most remote spots, you are never more than three or four days' travel of a radio station," Mr. Washburn said.

Estate Seeking $15,300 Damages Woman's Death

Seeking $15,300 special and general damages supreme court action was started Tuesday by Gerald O'Connor, K.C., Edmonton barrister, on behalf of Stanley Harold Lingerde, Camrose, administrator of the estate of Irene Lingerde. Defendants to the action are Ernest Hollingsworth, Edmonton, and the Edmonton Motors Ltd.

The action arises out of an automobile accident in which Irene Lingerde received injuries from which she died. The accident occurred at the intersection of 98 street and 100A avenue on December 6 last.

Edmonton Motors Ltd. are joined as defendants to the action as he was driving a motor car as the agent or servant of the company at the time of the accident, the statement of claim sets forth.

They Spend A Year In The Arctic

MR. AND MRS. Odds Against Japan In War If U. S. Takes Firm Stand

Moral and physical defence of British and Chinese territory in the Far East is tremendous, according to Dr. Winifred Cullis, professor of physiology at the University of London, who is in Edmonton following a tour of the Far East, where she has been speaking on behalf of the British ministry of information.

"In December," she said, "I was told in Shanghai that the odds against Japan extending its field of war were two to one, and if America stood firm in its ideals, the odds would rise to ten to one."

"The Chinese are to be tremendously admired: their courage and resistance to war is a magnificent," she said.

VISITS KAI-SHEK

Dr. Cullis stated that she had visited at the home of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, but had been unable to see her as the wife of the Generalissimo was ill. However, she talked to Mme. T. V. Kung, sister of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, and learned much of the work the Chinese women are doing there in every field of war work open to them.

Visiting in the Dutch East Indies, Dr. Cullis again saw the tremendous spirit of moral courage and resistance. There, she said, the people are very sure that they will overcome all obstacles and are standing firm by Britain and the Dutch government in London. On Churchill's birthday, Dutch flags flew everywhere in the East Indies.

"It is almost incredible," she said, "the way the British remain steady and confident. It is encouraging just to watch them carry on their work before and after and even during air raids."

Dr. Cullis expressed tremendous praise for the aid given Britain by Canada and the Dominion.

Visiting in Japan, the professor saw little of what was going on. She stated that a request had been made to the Japanese papers for interview her, but that the papers constantly decline interviews with foreigners in their country.

From Australia and New Zealand, Dr. Cullis travelled by plane to the United States, where she addressed many meetings before coming to Canada for a series of addresses on women's work in the war.

MEETINGS HERE

Dr. Cullis will address a public meeting on Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in Convocation Hall under auspices of the National Council of Education. Her subject will be "Britain Organized For War." During the afternoon she was a tea guest of the Women's University Club at the home of Mrs. R. B. Wells.

On Wednesday she will be the guest speaker at an afternoon tea sponsored by the Women's Canadian Club at the Macdonald hotel and will speak on "Britain Today." That evening, she will attend an informal dinner with the women students of the University in residence at Pembina Hall.

Rats Will Be Used To Test Vitamin Content Of Flour

The problem of increasing vitamin B-1 in white flour will be tackled by Dr. L. B. Pett, the University of Alberta biochemistry lecturer who invented the eye-testing apparatus that reveals vitamin A deficiency.

Dr. Pett disclosed today that with the assistance of G. A. LePage of Medicine Hat, a miniature milling plan of 120 rats he will attempt to discover a method of retaining in flour the outer coatings of wheat kernels which are five times richer in vitamin B-1 than wheat germs.

Lack of vitamin B-1 in human and animal diets reacts sharply on nervous systems. To bolster nerves in wartime, the British government has adopted a system of adding thiamin, concentrated B-1, to flour.

Fortification of Canadian flour by addition of wheat kernels multiplies the B-1 content, millers have claimed, but most scientists are skeptical of the value. Dr. Pett said.

"The best natural sources of vitamin B-1 are the outer coatings of grains," he said. "If these could be retained in flour, there would be no vitamin B-1 deficiency. The objective is a method of retaining them without causing deteriorating of the flour. We believe we're on the right track."

25 MEMBERS TAKE SEATS FIRST TIME

9 Social Credit, 15 Independents, 1 Labor Are New M.L.A.'s

Changed personnel of the legislature will be one of the features of the opening of the first session of the ninth elected house of this province, which gets under way at 3 p.m. Thursday. No fewer than 25 of the 57 members of the legislature will be making their first appearance at this session.

Of the 25 new members nine are Social Credit, 13 Independents and one Labor. Social Credit members include C. I. Sayers, Meeting Creek farmer who was elected in the Camrose by-election; Mr. Feheney 6 and who is expected to take his seat on Monday, March 3. The one Labor member is Angus J. Morrison, Edson.

WOMAN MEMBER

The feminine section of the house has been reduced from two as it was from 1935-1940 to one. Neither of the women who sat in the last house will be present this time. The one member is Mrs. R. E. Wood, S.C., Stony Plain, who on Friday will second the motion to send a reply to the Speech from the Throne.

On Mr. Duggan's right will be J. J. Bowlen, Calgary, and George McLaughlin, Hamilton.

To the left of Mr. Davison will be Alfred Speakman, Red Deer. Also in the front row, but apart from the end of the Independent line, will be Mr. Morrison, the Labor member.

Immediately behind Mr. Morrison is the seat of Capt. J. H. Tremblay, Liberal, Grouard, who is absent on active service and cannot attend.

GOVERNMENT BENCHES

The only change in the front row of government benches is that Hon. D. B. Mackillop, new minister of agriculture, takes the seat formerly occupied by Hon. D. B. Mullen, Lacombe, as provincial treasurer.

The next formerly occupied by J. H. Unwin, who was government whip, will be filled by C. Bourcier, new government whip. Government selection for the post of deputy speaker, Alfred J. Hooke, S.C., Rocky Mountain House, will be seated on the left of government benches, immediately behind the cabinet ministers.

In this new house will be 32 members who sat in the eighth legislature. Of these 20 are Social Credit ors; three Independents and one Liberal.

NUMBER CUT

Strength of the legislature was reduced from 63 to 57 in a redistribution bill made operative in the general election of March 21 last.

The government election of 21 is the largest since the present government took office in 1935. When the Social Credit forces first came in they won 56 of the 63 seats with an opposition of five Liberal and two Conservative members. The opposition at dissolution last March consisted of 14, including four non-caucus Social Credit members.

ARMY PARADES ARE DISCUSSED BY CHURCHMEN

Answering inquiries from the Edmonton Ministerial Association regarding the reserve army Sunday parades interfering with attendance at church services, Lieut. Lt.-Col. E. Brown, M.M., E.D., area commandant, was read Monday by Rev. Harold Stibbards at a meeting of the association in the Central Church of Christ Disciples. It had been reported at a previous meeting that members of choirs as well as the congregations were thinning out because of the parades.

Col. Brown's letter stated that "Sunday reserve army parades are purely optional and need not interfere with church work."

Rev. J. Gordon Brown, minister of Robertson United Church, was re-elected to the presidency of the association. Other officers are Rev. Daniel Young, First Baptist, vice-president; Rev. Halsey Wakelin, Central Church of Christ, secretary recording secretary; Maj. E. T. Waterston, men's work secretary of the Salvation Army, secretary-treasurer.

The committee is composed of Canon A. E. Cornell, All Saints; Rev. J. MacBeath Miller, First Presbyterian; and Reg. T. Rose, general secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

Church business was discussed at the meeting, followed by devotionals led by Rev. T. R. Davies, minister of Highlands United Church. A social was then held at which ministers' wives were entertained.

ESKIMOS ARE NOW TAKING OWN PICTURES

An amateur movie craze has hit the Eskimos of Banks Island, north of Aklavik in the Arctic ocean, it was stated here by H. Peffer, Aklavik fur trader.

Two movie cameras are owned by the Eskimo trappers and all the Eskimos are keen to watch the pictures of seal hunting and other occupations.

GOVERNMENT IN SYMPATHY PENSION AIM

Hon. E. C. Manning Praises Work Of Society Here

Declaring government and personal sympathy with aims and objects of the Alberta Pensioners Society, Hon. Ernest C. Manning, minister of trade and industry, in addressing that organization Monday night at a meeting at the I.O.O.F. hall, 103 street, approved the broadening of a pension scheme on a universal basis. The society has been advocating such broadening.

President Edward C. Fisher was in the chair.

Mr. Manning declared that he hoped the society would be well organized and that the work would be extended to other sections of the Dominion. Stating that the production problems had been solved, Mr. Manning contended that this could not be claimed in respect to distribution of surplus products.

PROVIDE PENSIONS

The minister said that the Dominion, provincial and municipal governments as well as leaders in finance and industry should be prepared to adjust finances to enable the state to make long overdue arrangements to pension men and women who had made a contribution to the upbuilding of Canada.

He contended that the Bank of Canada should be utilized to extend credit and insure proper distribution of goods to enable a decent standard of living for all. He recalled that some years ago the legislature passed a resolution advocating reduction of qualifying age for pensions from 70 to 65 years and that the monthly allowance should be increased from the present $20 a month.

The Society received praise from Mr. Manning for advocating a national pensions scheme that would provide for all instead of for special classes.

Instructor and Student Pilot Die—Plane Hits Water

CALGARY, Feb. 18.—(CP)—Two airmen from No. 3 Service Flying Training School, Calgary, were killed late Monday when their twin-engined bomber struck the water of the Bow river and crashed upside down less than 200 yards from the Bow Valley ranch house, eight miles west of Cochrane. Cochrane is 20 miles west of Calgary.

The fliers left the Currie Barracks flying field at Calgary about 4:30 p.m. on a routine training flight. They were timed at 5:30 when they dusk started to close in, and the ill plane failed to return with the rest of the airmen's flight that been in service during the afternoon.

R.C.A.F. officials were unable to start an official search because of the darkness.

Forbes Campbell, co-owner of the Bow Valley ranch with his employee, Earle Munroe, were the first to the scene of the accident.

$1,000 Is Offer For Purchase Of School Building

H. G. Turner, secretary-treasurer of the Edmonton public school board told trustees at the property committee at a meeting in the Civic Block, Monday, that an offer of $1,000 had been made for the old Vermilion Avenue school, on 113 street and 105 avenue.

The school has not been used by the board for a number of years and recently was taken over for the Dominion-provincial youth training scheme. The committee was of the opinion that $1,000 was a low estimate for the structure, and members stated they would like the school and examine it more closely before making any definite decision.

The board's report showed that city schools had used $3,726 worth of fuel as compared with last year's figure of $3,698 for the same month.

W. G. Johnston, night fireman at the Strathcona high school was granted leave of absence on a recommendation. Mr. Johnston is planning to enlist for active service with the R.C.A.S.C.

Miss McCuaig Is Visitor In Edmonton

Maintenance of essential nursing services to the communities in which branches are situated and seeking to give their best contribution to Canada in the safe-guarding of the health of its citizens, is the war-time policy of the Victorian Order of Nurses, stated Miss Mary McCuaig, western supervisor of the V.O.N., in a little interview on Tuesday. Miss McCuaig is in Edmonton in the course of a western tour of V.O.N. branches and is a guest at the Macdonald hotel.

"While a number of our nurses have enlisted for overseas service and have left the order and another group have left the service to get married during the past year, our policy remains the same and our service as wide in scope as before," she said. "It is our belief that health education and care of the sick at home is one of Canada's essential services, and one which the Order with its many branches throughout the Dominion can do effectively," she continued. "The home front must be maintained and kept strong if the war is to be fought to a successful conclusion."

NEW BRANCHES

Two new branches have been opened up in the east — but the number in the west remain the same. Miss Elizabeth Smellie, C.B.E., R.R.C., who resigned from her post as chief superintendent to become the Matron-in-chief of the Canadian Army Medical Nursing Service is still in Canada. Her post in the order has been filled by Miss Maude Hall who has been appointed Acting Chief Superintendent of the V.O.N. Her assistant is Miss Creasy.

Women Play Brilliant Role In War Today, Says Dr. Cullis

BRITISH women, under pressure of war, are amazingly steady and are confident of ultimate victory, declared Dr. Winifred Cullis, Professor of Physiology at the University of London, who has come to Edmonton during the course of a lecture tour on behalf of the British Ministry of Information. Dr. Cullis left England last summer and has been visiting in the Orient, in Australia and New Zealand, and in the United States.

MRS. D. B. REES

who is directing "Time and the Conways" the forthcoming production of the Edmonton Little Theatre, to be presented in the Masonic Temple on the evenings of Tuesday and Wednesday, February 25 and 26. Mrs. Rees is being assisted in the direction of the play by Mr. Harold L. Weir.

"It is almost incredible," she said, "the way the British men and women carry on in war time. It is tremendously encouraging and most inspiring simply to watch them meet the perils of war, and continue their jobs. The women are all active in some phase of war work, on the land, in offices, as air-raid wardens, nurses and the like."

Dr. Cullis left London just before it was bombed, but stated that she had visited many war-torn centres, including Cardiff, following its bombing on 16 successive nights.

CHINESE WOMEN

In China, too, the professor stated, the women are taking an important part in the war work. "They are magnificent in their courage and steadfastness," she said, "and are accomplishing much in every phase of war work open to them."

Much credit is due to the leadership of the Chinese women by Mme. Chiang Kai Shek, she said. Dr. Cullis visited at the home of the generalissimo's wife, who was ill at the time, and so she talked only with her sister, Madame T. V. Kung. The Chinese women are admirable, conscientious and most praiseworthy in their work, she said.

IN AUSTRALIA

In Australia and New Zealand, she told the women there of the work the British women are doing in the United Kingdom, and saw the great work being done there. From Australia she travelled to the United States and then to Canada to continue her lecture series. She is proud, too, of the work Canadian women are doing to aid the cause of Empire and freedom.

KEEPING IN TOUCH

Former president of the International Federation of University Women, Dr. Cullis stated that the federation is keeping in touch as well as possible with their members in German-occupied countries — with their president in Poland, who is a professor of hygiene and who is now believed to be working in Warsaw, and with their three vice-presidents who are in Sweden, Belgium and Switzerland.

The federation was founded in London in 1919 with a primary principle of the prevention of war. Differences of race, religion and [illegible] were to hold no place in the federation, she said, "and we had, in pre-war days, members in 38 countries, although we had only a dozen countries represented in 1919. England, the United States and Canada were the first three countries represented in the federation," she stated.

"The federation has provided large supplies of money to help the university women who are in occupied countries, and others who are now refugees. Various channels are employed," she said, "to keep in touch with our members as well as possible."

CANADA HELPS

The assistance given to England by Canadian men and women has been magnificent, Dr. Cullis said. "From the very first they have done such a lot to aid Britain, and certainly we can make no criticism of the assistance given. If there were to be any criticism of the Canadian effort, it would have to come from Canadians."

From Edmonton, Dr. Cullis will journey eastward through Canada continuing her addresses on the war work of the British women.

Edmonton Creche Holds Tenth Annual Meeting On Monday

MEETING in the Macdonald hotel on Monday afternoon on the occasion of the tenth annual meeting of the Edmonton Creche Society, members of the board of the society reviewed events of the past year and named officers to serve for the coming 12 months. Mrs. William D. Spence was named president for the coming year, and Lady Rodney, who since the formation of the Creche has been its president, was named honorary president. Lady Rodney presided at the meeting.

The secretary's report was read by Mrs. G. H. A. Monkman. She reported that nine regular meetings, two special meetings, and eleven executive meetings had been held during 1940. The year's activities commenced in March, when a large membership drive was held. On May 4, a highly successful tag day was held by the society under the able convenership of Mrs. Albert Huff.

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

In her presidential report Lady Rodney expressed thanks to the Seneca Club, the Ritzy Club, the White Circle Club, the Lady Rodney Club, the Edinburgh Chapter, I.O.D.E., the Edmonton Council of Jewish Women, the Westward Ho Chapter, I.O.D.E., and the Volunteer Aid detachment of the St. John Ambulance Brigade. All these organizations were of great help to the work of the Creche during 1940.

Report on membership and finance was given by Mrs. W. D. Spence. 1940 proved to be a most satisfactory year for the club from a financial standpoint. Mrs. E. M. Tisdale read the treasurer's report.

A report by Mrs. Emerson, chairman of the receiving committee, showed that the Creche was used by people in all walks of life. The number of shopping mothers and soldiers' children making use of the Creche was showing great increase. It is the hope of the society to establish a nursery school at the Creche.

OF THE NURSERY

Miss M. Bergey, in her report, covered the activities of the nursery. Her report revealed that the Creche was in operation 302 days during 1940, with children representing 248 families being cared for at the Creche. The highest monthly attendance was during May, when 33 children were brought in to be looked after; the lowest was in February when only three children called. This made an average daily attendance of 12 children. The youngest child receiving care at the Creche was 11 days, and the eldest nine years. Meals and bottle feedings for the year totalled 6,845.

Guest speaker for the afternoon was Miss Thompson, director of social agencies. She complimented the society on the splendid work it was doing and urged members to work even harder now that the burdens of war and war work were on their shoulders.

Dorothy Dix Says:

Dear Miss Dix—How should a husband and wife divide the family income?

ANXIOUS BRIDEGROOM.

Answer—I will let a correspondent who signs himself "Contented Husband" answer that question, as an ounce of experience is worth a pound of theory. He says: "I believe that a woman's work in the home should be regarded as of equal value with her husband's work outside of the home. With this thought of equality of service we have used a plan that has worked successfully for many years.

"All moneys received are divided into three equal parts. We each take one-third and the other third is set aside for saving. Out of this last is paid the life insurance, which, of course, is one form of saving.

"With the money divided, as I have stated, we figure the house and office expenses as nearly as we can and divide this between us, each being responsible for certain items. What is left we each have for our individual use to use absolutely as we please.

"This plan makes a wife feel that she is a real partner, and I think that there are very few women who, if trusted with responsibility, would not show themselves perfectly capable of handling their end of the finances of the matrimonial firm. I know that my wife outclasses me when it comes to getting results from her third of the money.

Dear Dorothy Dix — What do you think of shiftless and lazy wives? There are any number of steady, hard-working men who never eat a decent meal off of a clean table because their wives are too indolent to do the work necessary to make a comfortable home. These women bring children into the world who are never cared for and who must carry the memory of their miserable, neglected childhood as long as they live. Poverty does not create dirt, but dirt and shiftlessness create poverty. Trifling wives cause more misery in a family and break up more homes than any other one thing. What should be done about it?

ROBERT.

Answer — I have long contended that what is sauce for the gander is sauce for the goose, and that inasmuch as the law compels the man to support his wife it should compel the wife to make a clean and comfortable home for the husband. If nonsupport is a cause for divorce, bad housekeeping should also be recognized as a cause for divorce.

I believe that if every man would let his wife know unmistakably that he expected her to do her part in the matrimonial partnership as efficiently as he did his, that it would turn many a slacker wife into a real helpmate. For wives do not wish to lose their jobs as wives any more than do any other women who have good paying positions, and they would make good on them if they had to, if it were because husbands are too easy and let them get away with laziness and slovenliness that wives put it over on them.

Minute Make-Ups

Here is the quickest routine to follow when you tell the husband of the boy friend—"I'll be ready in a minute."

1. Tie a headband around your hair. Quickly spread a layer of cleansing cream over face and neck.

2. Go over your nails while cream is penetrating.

3. Now remove cleansing cream with tissue. Go over face and neck with skin lotion on a bit of cotton.

4. Brush and arrange hair. Put on a net or veil to keep the hair in place.

5. Next, spread on foundation cream. Now smooth on your powder.

6. Use dry rouge because you can apply it quicker.

7. Brush eyebrows and lashes. A touch of cream or eyeshadow over your lids. A quick, sure stroke of your lipstick.

Your Figure, Madame!

By IDA JEAN KAIN

If you love to eat but have a pronounced aversion to exercise in any form, your best bet is to stretch. This easy activity increases muscle tone, pulls out the annoying bulge which may claim the midriff, and helps you look and feel slim instead of bulky. It does all those things—and I'm not stretching the truth.

Begin with a three-way stretcher—up, down and across. Lie on the floor with the arms down at the sides and the legs stretched straight down on the floor. Fling the left arm up and back on the floor and, at the same time, stretch the left leg over the right and touch foot to the floor beyond. Then as the left leg and arm are returned to the starting position, repeat the right arm and leg. Continue for a dozen counts and do the exercise slowly and thoroughly.

To make stretching more interesting, Marjorie Noble, beauteous member of Billy Rose's Diamond Horseshoe chorus, submits her favorite sideward bend. It's just as hard as it looks, but very slimming if you can do it.

Most of the stretch should always be centered through the middle of the figure. It doesn't help to streamline your figure to yank your arms half out of their sockets. To get the feel of the technique, try this one:

Stand erect, feet about parallel and apart, and, bending the elbows, place fingertips securely on shoulders. Your figure should be in perfect alignment, elbows straight down at sides, tummy pulled up and hips tucked under. Now slowly bend sideward as you stretch upward. You should feel a terrific pull on the waistline muscles. Come back to position and try it the other direction. Then relax and repeat with hands clasped on top of the head, elbows pointing straight out at sides, but shoulders relaxed.

If the fat pads have lodged off centre and escape the direct line of pull, you may have to go out of your way to dislodge them. This should do it:

Place the hands on the hips, twist vigorously at the waist, and bend to the side and back. Repeat, bringing muscles on the other side into play. Here is a good one for general waistline obesity.

One of the best ways to stretch—and slim—the waist is to lie on the back on the floor, with arms extended on floor overhead and legs straight down. Keep on stretching while you press down with the small of the back and the backs of the knees. Then, slowly, begin to work arms and legs over to the left side—just inch along until your body is in an arc, hands and feet nearly touching, and then side pulled slim. Straighten out the same way—moving shoulders and legs until you are again in a straight line, with legs down and arms on floor—then repeat to right.

If you like more action, have a horizontal bar erected in a convenient doorway—it should be within easy reach when you stand on tiptoes so that you can concentrate the pull through the midriff.

Your dietitian,

IDA JEAN KAIN.

McCoy Health Service

Water has been used for thousands of years in the treatment of disease, and with no uncertain results. Perhaps it would be more generally appreciated if a high price were placed upon it as a curative agent. However physicians all over the world are aware of the value of pure water in not only curing a host of diseases, but in maintaining an already healthy state of the body. The fact that water is a necessity of life need hardly be proven, for it is a well known fact that man can live for weeks without food but only a few days without water, and in pioneer days, neither man nor animal would settle in any area which did not have a good water supply.

The value of the water cure in muscle reconstruction in the various forms of paralysis is demonstrated in the different spas in the United States, such as those in Hot Springs, Arkansas; Warm Springs, Ga., and many others in California and other states. Canada, too, has its share. However, it is not possible, from an economic viewpoint, for most people to go to these places, so if you have a tub bath in your own home, then today I am going to bring one part of the water cure into your own home, which may help considerably in certain conditions. I refer now to the use of hydro-therapy, in which the patient is placed in a sitting position, legs extended on the floor of the tub, which is filled to a point just above the hips. This all sounds very simple, but for the relief of backache, kidney, pelvic congestions and so on, it is unequaled. While taking the bath, which should be of about 15 minutes duration, the patient should bend forward frequently, as this will tend to loosen the lumbar vertebrae and muscles permitting a better supply of blood and nerve energy to the lower extremities. I have seen sciatic patients in the agonizing "toothache" pain of that disorder, placed in a sitz bath, and in a matter of minutes, a glow of relief comes over the face.

Muscular aches and pains in the lower extremities may be treated in the same manner with equal success. Of course it should be kept in mind that these measures relieve the pain, help in removing toxins back from the area into the general circulation for consequent elimination, but other suitable measures should be used for a successful cure. Diet and elimination are very important, also the removal of any infections existing in the body. Those readers interested in further information on the subject are invited to send for Dr. Frank McCoy's articles entitled "Hot and Cold Sitz Baths" and another on "Colon Cleansing" and one on "Cures at Mineral Springs."

Just address your request to the McCoy Health System and enclose a large, self-addressed envelope and 6 cents in stamps for one article or 1 will send you all three for ten cents. This covers the cost of mailing and handling.

Questions and Answers

QUESTION—Mrs. D. W. writes: "What do you think about smoking and is it harmful to the body?"

ANSWER: There are two kinds of smokers, those who inhale and those who do not. The one who inhales must expect the lungs to be injured to some extent by it, because the inhaler's lungs become coated with the tar-like by-products and his lung power is thereby decreased. Cigarette smoking among school children is increasing, and some private girls' schools now allow smoking in the dormitories. The teachers have found that prohibition of smoking has had no effect since the girls will smoke regardless of the rules. It seems to me that the girls should be taught that smoking takes away from their feminine charm, and if they realize this, they would no longer consider smoking is the "smart" thing to do.

Leading the step is easy, too. A full count before, he prepares her by a firm pressure of right arm and hand. As you sway, imagine the slow grace of a tango—relax completely.

Next you'll be learning all the smart steps from diagrams — the Conga, rumba!

And Mine Your Baby

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

It ought to be expected that any baby given enough food to eat; enough being enough amount which causes a normal gain in weight, ought to have the muscular ability to excrete the refuse of that food.

The reason why the baby seems to fail in this expectation is that parents have no faith in his ability. The parent feels that she must help. She is disturbed at any sign of intestinal irregularity.

Sometimes, she puts her faith in daily enemas, or in suppositories or in laxatives or sometimes just in laxative foods. The mother whose family of children were fed prunes every day was exhibiting her complete lack of faith in the ability of the children's intestines to work without some aid.

Primarily, what a truly constipated child needs—and this means a hard, dry, difficult-to-pass stool—is more to eat or some change in the formula or the type of food being given.

The nursing baby gets along very well, if the gain is good, whether there is or is not a daily movement. The stool remains uncontaminated and therefore there is no need for aid. The bottle baby whose food is so easily adjusted, needs that adjustment when there is not a daily movement of proper consistency.

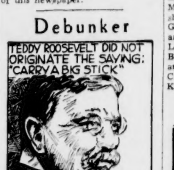
The sugar element of the formula is often the portion that can be changed to advantage when the formula is proving constipating. Too much sugar is as bad as not enough sugar. Both cause constipated stools. One has to keep experimenting until one arrives at the exact number of tablespoons of sugar which result in the baby being satisfied with the formula and able to have a daily movement without artificial help.

When the baby is constipated watch the weekly rate of gain. That tells so much about whether the formula and foods being given are inadequate or excessive. And make those changes in the formula which bring it to a point where baby sleeps well, seems contented and digests and excretes the refuse without difficulty. If everything else is all right, the mother need not concern herself unduly about an occasional missed movement.

Remember that the intestines do their work much more efficiently if they are not continually furnished those artificial crutches to which they inevitably become accustomed.

My leaflet on "Types of Stools" discusses reasons for constipation. Send for a free copy, enclosing self-addressed, three-cent stamped envelope to Mrs. Eldred of the Your Baby and Mine department in care of this newspaper.

Debunker



Former President Theodore Roosevelt is usually credited with originating the saying: "Speak softly and carry a big stick," but the truth is that he learned this proverb from the natives of West Africa, where he had hunted big game. Teddy Roosevelt made the saying famous after he said, in 1901: "If the American nation will speak softly and yet build and keep at all times the finest fighting training a thoroughly efficient navy, the Monroe Doctrine will go far." This became a sort of slogan to describe his foreign policy.

Points For Parents

Son: "Gee, but I'm awkward."

Father: "I'm glad you can laugh about it, son. I was worse than you are at your age. Most fast-growing boys stumble a bit but that stage doesn't last long."

Mother: "Do straighten that rug and then see if you can't pick up your feet."

Father: "I wonder if the time will ever come when you can walk into a room without stumbling in."

We help the fast-growing adolescent overcome his self-consciousness when we help keep him from taking himself too seriously.

What To Do

I am having a 4 o'clock church wedding and I would like to know when I should mail my invitations? Both myself and attendants are carrying long-stemmed flowers—on which arm should they be carried? Is it proper to throw our flowers to the bridesmaids? Are the guests served as they leave the receiving line, and when should the receiving line disperse? Thank you.

MISS E. M. D.

Answer: The wedding invitations should be mailed two or three weeks before the wedding day. Flowers are generally carried on the left arm, but in a wedding procession where there are two or four bridesmaids, it is more effective to carry the bouquets on the outside arm.

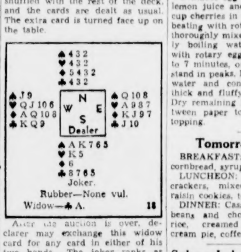
It's disappointing to the bridesmaids and guests if the bride does not throw her bouquet. So when you leave the reception to change into your travelling dress is the time to throw your bouquet to your bridesmaids.

The receiving line should not disperse until all the guests have arrived, but the refreshments may be served to the guests as soon as they have congratulated the bride and bridegroom and spoken to every one in the receiving line.

McKenney On Bridge

By WM. E. McKENNEY, America's Card Authority

In yesterday's article I described "Super-Contract Bridge," a way of using the joker and a widow card developed by Capt. John M. Ligget, U.S.N., retired. The joker is shuffled with the rest of the deck, and the cards are dealt as usual. The widow card is turned face up on the table.



After the auction is over, declarer may exchange this widow card for any card in either of his two hands. The joker ranks as a super-ace in any suit that the bidder names at the time that he plays it.

Today's hand shows the combination of the joker and the widow card can change a weak hand into a strong one.

South has a minimum opening bid, two and one-half honor tricks, outside of his joker. North has a perfect Yarborough. Yet South can bid and make four spades. East-West hold a tremendous assortment of high cards, yet the best they can do is to overcall four spades with five hearts or diamonds, as a save, being set one.

At South's four spades, he should take the club ace into his own hand and discard the six of diamonds. Then he has no diamond losers, one spade loser, one heart loser, and two in clubs. The joker will offset one of the losers in the black suits. It may seem that he cannot get into dummy to lead up to his king of hearts, but actually the joker as an ace is an extra club will enable him to win 10 tricks.

Suppose that West finds the best defense and opens a diamond. South ruffs and leads a low club. Another diamond forces another trump. Then South cashes his ace and king of spades, followed by the ace of clubs and then the joker as a club. Thus he has established five clubs with only one loss.

He will simply run down these clubs, discarding dummy's hearts. East can ruff whenever he pleases. If he does ruff, declarer wins five tricks in his own hand, four club tricks, and one trump in dummy by the eventual ruff of one heart. Meanwhile the defense can win only one club, one trump and one heart.

Cherry Desserts Are Welcome At Party

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

For a birthday dinner party, you'll need a cherry dessert. Here's a delikate recipe using sour, pitted cherries and cracker crumbs as the basics of an unusual frozen torte. It is rich in nutrients. Therefore, you can keep the rest of the menu comparatively simple.

FROZEN CHERRY TORTE

One No. 2 can sour pitted cherries, 3 egg yolks, ½ cup sugar, 3 egg whites, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 cup whipping cream, 2-3 cup rolled graham cracker or vanilla wafer crumbs.

Strain juice from cherries. Combine juice, ½ cup sugar, slightly beaten egg yolks in top of double boiler. Cook until slightly thickened. Remove from fire and add cherries and lemon juice. Cool until thick, but not firm; then fold in beaten egg whites and whipped cream. Turn into greased refrigerator tray that has been well covered with the crumbs. Reserve enough crumbs to cover mixture with thin layer. Freeze until firm.

CHERRY CREAM PIE

One recipe vanilla cornstarch pudding, 1 baked 9-inch pie shell, ½ cup orange cherry-flavored gelatin, 1 cup hot canned cherry juice, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1¼ cups drained canned cherries.

Prepare vanilla pudding as directed on package. Chill. Turn into pie shell. Dissolve gelatin in hot cherry juice. Add lemon juice and cherries. Chill until slightly thickened. Pour over pudding in pie shell. Chill until firm. Serve with whipped cream, if desired.

CHERRY FLUFF TOPPING

Two egg whites, unbeaten, 1 1-3 cups sugar, ½ teaspoon light corn syrup, ¼ teaspoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind, dash of salt, 1 cup pitted, canned red cherries, drained and coarsely chopped.

Combine egg whites, sugar, syrup, lemon juice and rind, salt, and 2-3 cup cherries in top of double boiler, beating with rotary egg-beater until thoroughly mixed. Place over rapidly boiling water, beat constantly with rotary egg-beater, and cook 6 to 7 minutes, or until mixture will stand in peaks. Remove from boiling water and continue beating until thick and fluffy (about 2 minutes). Dry remaining cup cherries between paper towels and fold into topping.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Grapefruit juice, cornbread, syrup, coffee, milk.

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your digestive tract every day. If bile is not flowing freely, your food does not digest. It just decays in the bowels. Then gas bloats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons get in the blood. And you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

All you need are those wonderful laxative pills known as Carter's Little Liver Pills. They get at the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get those two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless and gentle. Yet they make the bile flow freely. They do the work. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

WAIT FOR ME

By KATHERINE MACY

JAN MACLEOD, 30, caretaker's blonde daughter on the beautiful Van Vliet estate in the Virginia hills, is infatuated with PETER VAN VLIET III., the owner's 21-year-old son, whom she has known since childhood. Jan goes horseback riding and meets an automobile drives by handsome STEPHEN Gardner, New York, reporter, and a photographer. She tells them Peter is not at Hollymount. Jan returns home and Peter's father, ROBERT VAN VLIET, telephones that Peter has been missing from his classes at Harvard for 10 days and police think he may be kidnapped. The two newspapermen reappear in search of Peter and while Jan is conducting them through the mansion, Peter, piloting his own plane, buzzes into the turf, just missing the house. He throws his arms around Jan, kisses her and the photographer snaps a flash bulb picture. Steve gives Jan the negative at her request which she destroys. She goes to telephone Peter's father, returns and is chilled to hear Peter tell the newspapermen, "You leave Evelyn Webb's name out of this!"

CHAPTER FOUR

NEXT morning Jan came downstairs to find that Mrs. Tuttle, the "by-the-day" cleaning woman, had already served breakfast to her father and Peter, who were talking in the sunshiny alcove. She asked for her orange juice and listened to them.

Peter had found some old riding clothes which were not too small for him, for he was still thin and not very fit under his Florida tan. There were tired smudges under his blue eyes.

As the maid pushed back from the table, Peter asked, "Jan, won't you ride with me this morning? I haven't been on a horse for months. Rob tells me you have a new mare."

As they trotted along the bridle path half an hour later, Jan asked casually, "Did you get rid of the newspaper men last night?"

"Eventually. We had a couple of drinks and they went back to New York. Decent enough chaps. Steve Gardner is one of the Globe's best men. I've seen him around before."

PETER LAUGHS

"You can have them!"

He laughed. "I noticed you weren't very communicative with them."

"I didn't think they had any business around Hollymount. Anyway, it is Dad's and my business to protect the Van Vliet interests."

"The old noblesse oblige!" derided Peter.

They broke into a gallop and when they stopped at the end of the path, he said in an off-hand way, "I called Dad this morning.

He tells me that Fania is bringing some people down for a dance tonight. Look, why don't you come? She's having a lot of people you'd like. Sandra Paget, Jim Brownell, all that crowd."

Jan sat very still. Until now, it had never occurred to her that some day she might be part of one of those parties in Hollymount's ballroom, she had been on the fringe, always.

She was the nice little girl from Dower House who swam and rode with the guests now and then, but she had been with, not of, them.

Well, why not? Rob's old ideas about class distinctions were completely out of date. He wouldn't approve, but . . .

"Thank you," she said, "I'd like to."

WILL CALL

"Then don't be so snooty about it! I'll come for you, about nine."

"Cinderella at the ball!" she said, trying to speak lightly. "I've never danced up there, you know."

"High time you did. Tell me, what have you been doing with yourself all these years?"

High school, Business course in Leesburg. I worked in Judge Wade's office for a while, I think I'll have a job in the bank after the first of the year."

No romance?"

LITTLE ROMANCE

None that matters." She glanced at him from the corner of her eye. As they came back toward the house, Jan asked, What happened to your plane?"

"I had the boys cart it out to the west meadow, where Dad would not see it right away. They're trying to fix the gears now. Hey, speaking of planes!" They brought up abruptly and watched a small red airplane, sparkling in the sun, circle uncertainly over their heads. "It must be Jim Brownell! He's trying to land. I didn't know he was going to fly down."

"He can land on the meadow, can't he?"

"Yes, come on!" They headed quickly toward the level, green field, Peter gesturing frantically to the pilot above them. "He sees me. Here he comes!"

The plane, a small two-seater, settled down easily. "Better than I did last night," said Peter, jumping down from his horse and helping Jan. "Hi, Jim! And Sandra! How come?"

HELD BACK

Jan held back shyly, watching Jim Brownell help a girl from the plane. "Sandra" must be Sandra Paget, whom she had never seen. But she could scarcely help knowing all about this glamour-girl debutante of last year, whose pictures had appeared in magazines and newspapers all over the country.

Peter was introducing them, and Jan felt the other girl looking at her curiously. Sandra was even prettier than her pictures. Her dark, loosely curled hair hung almost to her shoulders, under a cherry red hat which matched precisely her close-fitting suede jacket and skirt.

Over her arm she held carelessly a mink coat which she handed to Peter, putting one hand in his with a little proprietary gesture, the other in that of big Jim Brownell.

TAUGHT TO FLY

"Jim taught me to fly." Peter was saying. "You've heard me talk about him, Jan."

"He's teaching me, too," smiled Sandra. "I'm pretty good, aren't I, Jim?" Unwillingly Jan liked her. "Did you come down last night, Miss Macleod?"

"Jan lives here," said Peter. "I'm the one who came down last night!" He explained, and presently Jan went alone to Dower House, refusing to go with them.

She was a little awed by them. It was not easy to become part of their talk all at once. The people, the places, she didn't know about them. Maybe it was a mistake to try.

NEW DRESS

Rob made no objection to her going to Fania's party. He said only, "Don't let it put ideas into your head, daughter. It won't happen often."

She had a comparatively new dress, a white one. She had little use for evening dresses, but last month Philip Carr and his sister, Ellie, had asked her to a party at Three Oaks, and she had bought it then.

Looking at herself critically as she dressed, she wished she could somehow look more sophisticated. The softly sweeping dress made her demure, defenselessly young.

But the look in Rob's eyes as she came downstairs comforted her. He kissed her, an unusual demonstration for him, and held her for a moment before Peter's knock announced him.

Peter left her at the door of the dressing room off the hall at the big house. Mary, the maid, whom she had known since childhood, took her wrap and exclaimed, "Why, Miss Jan, I didn't know you! How come you're here, child?"

Jan crimsoned as one or two of the girls before the mirrors turned to stare.

"You look mighty pretty!"

Self-consciously, Jan went to a mirror to pat her hair and look at the back of her gown. She could see other girls coming in, chattering among themselves. She didn't see a familiar face, for none of these guests, save for a few transplanted New Yorkers, lived near Hollymount.

HEAR VOICES

Their voices came to her from the doorway. One of them was asking, "Sandra, how about this new girl of Peter's? Do I hear that you have competition?"

She shrank against the wall, but could not get out of earshot. Sandra was laughing lightly, not unkindly, and saying, "I wouldn't know. I've only just met her. She's going to be here tonight, so you can see for yourselves."

"But who is she?" another persisted.

A voice broke in. Fania Jar had not seen her yet. "Peter's new girl? Oh, don't worry about her, Sandra, though she's fairly attractive, in a countryish way. Peter asked her here tonight out of the kindness of his heart. You see, her father works at Hollymount."

To Be Continued

Jan held back shyly, watching Peter help a girl from the plane. "Sandra" must be Sandra Paget, whom she had never seen, but couldn't help knowing about this glamour-girl debutante, whose pictures had appeared in magazines and newspapers all over the country.

MARKETING OF CATTLE HITS HIGH FIGURE

Alberta Sales Reach All-Time Peak, MacMillan Reports

Establishing a new all-time peak, total number of cattle, calves, sheep and swine marketed in Alberta during 1940 was 2,859,615, according to figures released Tuesday by authority of Hon. D. Bruce MacMillan, minister of agriculture. This is an increase of 474,039 head over 1939 when the total was 1,563,576 and is well ahead of the average of 1,651,501 head marketed each year in the six year period 1935-1940 inclusive.

The largest increase occurred in swine, which jumped from 979 to 1,485,572 head, an increase of nearly 52 per cent, a record for swine in this province.

Cattle marketings increased slightly over 1939, but the number of calves, sheep and lambs marketed was lower than the previous year's sales.

In 1940 marketings of the various classifications of animals were: cattle 257,823; calves 100,739; swine 1,485,572; sheep 192,681 and lambs 2,039,615. In the 1939 marketings were: cattle 246,748; calves 113,139; swine 979,886; sheep 223,791 for a total of 1,563,576.

The average for the 1935-1940 period was: cattle 284,029; calves 111,841; swine 1,307,925; sheep 218,606 for a total average of 1,651,501.

In connection with 1936 and 1937 it is recalled that there were above normal marketings, due to forced sales of stock from the drought area because of inadequate feed supplies. Lower sales of calves and sheep in 1940 are probably the result of young stock being retained by producers to build up their herds and flocks.

Among the provinces of Canada, Alberta has retained second place in matters of swine, cattle and sheep marketed, having been exceeded only by Ontario. In calves, however, Alberta's marketings dropped from third to fourth place in 1940. Ontario, Quebec and Manitoba exceeding Alberta.

Quality of Alberta hogs marketed in 1940 was fairly well maintained in spite of the great volume marketed, according to officials, while the percentage of Grade A carcasses dropped from 29.2 in 1939 to 27.3 in 1940, the total percentage of Grade A and B declined only from 86.13 to 85.22.

The decline in quality is due in some degree to new producers who commenced operations after the war began and who have not yet achieved a desirable quality in the type of swine marketed, it was stated.

No exports of livestock were made to Great Britain in 1940 but exports to the United States from Canada, amounted to 133,846 head of cattle; 75,683 calves; 265 hogs and 2,683 sheep and lambs.

Police Holding Edmonton Man On Theft Charges

Police are holding a young man on two charges of housebreaking and theft after brisk work by members of the plain clothes division following reports of burglaries in the northeast section of the city Monday.

Articles with a total value of $325, which included a woman's fur coat, were stolen from the home of Mrs. Rene Morkeberg, 11402 71 street.

At about the same time there was a complaint from the residence of Roy W. Miller, 7915 112 avenue. Mr. Miller told police he saw a man fast leaving by the rear door of his home, after the latter had stolen several articles of wearing apparel and several bed sheets.

Armed with a fair description of the burglar, Detectives O'Brien, Foster and Wilchinski started in search of the neighborhood and soon made an arrest.

Paul Pice of this city appeared before Magistrate Millar in city police court Tuesday morning and pleaded guilty to three charges of house-breaking and theft. At the request of Crown Prosecutor C. G. Purvis, K.C., sentence was postponed for one week.

Marshall Webb Passes In B.C.

Marshall F. Webb, well-known Edmonton old-timer, died Saturday at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Eacrett, Mission City, B.C. Mr. Webb was born near Uxbridge, Ont., in 1855. Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. from Mission City.

Mr. Webb came to Edmonton over 40 years ago and had lived here until recently. During his forty years he was engaged in the stock and shipping, later entering the government service in the attorney-general's and agriculture departments. He was one of the first directors of the Edmonton Exhibition Association and for many years started and judged horses on the exhibition track.

He took an active part in politics. Mr. and Mrs. Webb celebrated their golden wedding anniversary several years ago. Mrs. Webb predeceased her husband in 1935.

Surviving are five daughters: Mrs. F. J. Mooney, Winnipeg; Mrs. Mrs. A. Simpson, Vancouver, B.C.; Mrs. E. J. Eacrett, Mission City, B. C.; Mrs. L. Collins, Portland, Ore.; Miss Blanche Webb, Edmonton; one son, Francis Edgar Webb, Dawson Creek, B.C.; three brothers, Edward of Moose Jaw, Sask.; David, Whitewood, Sask., and Ralph of Edmonton; three sisters, Mrs. Howard Crosby, Toronto, Ont.; Mrs. J. Mitchell, Toronto, and Mrs. Walter Steele, Sealing; also several grandchildren.

Two Men And A Fish

If a man has a picture to back up his word, you will hardly accuse him of telling another fish story. And a picture is just what Fred C. Dedman, 10728 83 avenue, has—positive proof. Mr. Dedman, on the right, is the fisherman in question. The fish in question is a great northern pike, and Mr. Dedman angled him at Jackfish lake, about six miles south of Carvell Corner on the Jasper highway. The pike was caught by a hook and line a week ago Sunday and weighed 28 pounds. Mr. Dedman, and the other person in the picture, Ted Ormand, who assisted in preparing a gaff to haul the monster from under the ice, believe this is something of a record for winter fishing. On being dissected, the fish was found to have a hook and about three feet of line inside him, indicating that he put up quite a battle with someone previous to his capture.

U.F.A. SEEKS PROTECTION FARM DEBTS

Delegation Sees Cabinet—U.F.W.A. Is Also Represented

Resolutions passed by the United Farmers of Alberta at the Calgary convention last month, most important of which were those dealing with debt, were presented to the provincial cabinet here Monday by a delegation representing the U.F.A. and the U.F.W.A.

The cabinet told the delegation the government already had under review several proposals made by the organizations and that consideration would be given other points raised in the resolutions.

Resolutions dealing with debt urged strengthening of existing debt legislation in view of litigation attacking the validity of debt laws, or as an alternative, the declaration of a moratorium on farm debts until such time as market conditions for agricultural products improve.

EXEMPTION PROPOSED

Another proposal called for exemption from debt seizure of farm holdings and products until producing costs could be met out of farm revenue, or, failing this, exemption from seizure of first deliveries of grain up to the value of $3 per acre. In this connection it was explained that if first deliveries were seized for debt farmers would be unable to meet threshing or storekeepers' bills.

Winter Carnival Is Big Success: Prizes Announced

The Federation of Community Leagues' annual winter sports carnival held here last week was one of the most successful in the organization's history, Ben Hagen, publicity director, reported Tuesday.

Mr. Hagen, on behalf of the committee in charge, extended thanks to the Edmonton press and public for co-operation in staging the big winter show.

Results of the prize draw of lucky tickets were also announced Tuesday and are as follows: First prize of $15 to W. Hamilton, No 3695, second prize, $10, to H. Reid, No. 4172; third prize, $5, to Mrs. W. Nuckles, No 4190; the junior prize of $5 went to O. H. Boucher, No. 391.

for which there is usually no security.

Lowering of the age limit from 70 to 65 years for old age pensions was also requested.

Another resolution sought establishment of a car insurance scheme under government control under which premiums would be paid when auto licenses were obtained.

BLOOD "BANK"

Resolutions submitted by the U.F.W.A. asked for the establishment of a blood "bank" to insure a supply of blood for transfusions; a course in mid-wifery for graduate nurses; and the establishment of a home in Alberta for incorrigible boys.

Members of the delegation were R. Hennig, Fort Saskatchewan, executive members of the U.F.A.; Mrs. W. Ross Miller, president of the U.F.W.A.; and Mrs. M. E. Lowe, Namao, former director of the U.F.W.A.

Observance Of Sabbath Urged By City Pastor

"Life is hard and difficult and may deny our dreams and half-starve our hopes, but always along our road of life, close by the place of difficulty, God has planted a place of rest and refreshing," said Rev. J. Gordon Brown, speaking on "The Streams of the Desert" at Robertson United Church Sunday.

He mentioned as the oases of rest and refreshment, human associations and fellowships, the Sabbath, secret prayer and worship in God's house.

"The Lord's day is not merely a social institution. It not only imposes an obligation, it offers a privilege. It is a day when we ought to fill our soul, like reservoirs from the great water-sheds of Christian experience.

"Make no mistake about it. Worship is not a luxury. It is a necessity," Rev. Brown concluded. "It does for man something that nothing else can do."
